AVENUE THEATER WRECKED BY FIRE

Four Men Are Hurt, but Audience Leaves Opera House Without Panic or Injury.

LOSS WILL REACH $110,000

Fire destroyed the Avenue theater yesterday afternoon and wrecked the main entrance of the Grand opera house. While the flames devoured the top floor of the building an audience of 1,200 persons was dismissed from the building without a panic. The loss will aggregate $110,000, with insurance of about $85,000. The fire raged violently for two hours and caused a blockade in Fifth avenue. Several persons were injured. They are:

ROBERT M'KINLEY, assistant fire chief in the First district; deep scalp wound caused by falling glass; was removed to his home in Main street.

GEORGE HOUSMAN, stage hand at Grand opera house; overcome by smoke; not serious.

FRANK C. YOUNG, a member of the vaudeville team of Young and De Vole; prostrated by shock; at the Hotel Colonial; is a survivor of Iroquois theater fire in Chicago.

Where the Fire Originated.

The fire broke out in the "gridiron" above the stage of the Avenue a few minutes before 4 o'clock. This part of the building has been closed for some time, and the blaze had made considerable headway when it was discovered by James Duffy, a fireman, who is detailed on special duty at the two theaters. With M. P. Fox, electrician at the Grand, he ran to attach a hose to a fire plug behind the stage. Suddenly the switchboard began to sputter and Duffy was caught in a shower of sparks and burning debris from the crackling scenery. By this time clouds of black smoke and red tongues of flame pouring from the fourth story windows startled the crowds in Fifth avenue.

Intense excitement prevailed in the street. A rush was made into the theater to warn the audience of its danger. Policeman John Dean pulled the alarm from box 61 at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street and almost simultaneously box 52 at Fifth avenue and Wood street was pulled. This was precisely at 4 o'clock.

Roof Was a Mass of Flames.

The whole top of the building was aflame, and the audience still sat in ignorance of the danger. Duryea and Mortimer, a sketch team, were just closing their act and panic was threatened among the women who were in the back of the stage.

County Detective Robert G. Robinson and several other persons who had noticed the flames from the street walked quietly into the auditorium of the Grand and told the people in the rear rows to leave the building as quickly and as quietly as possible. The curtain was just ascending and the audience was keeping up a furious handclapping to tender an encore to Duryea and Mortimer. Those who had been told of the fire had the presence of mind to join in the applause and the house was half empty before those in the front seats were admonished of the impending danger. Director Fisher of the orchestra kept the musicians at work until the last occupant of the parquet floor left his seat.

Emerge Into Exciting Scene.

When the people reached the street engine bells were clanging, hose was being unreeled and firemen were invading the building with axes and ladders. A gale was blowing and the street was darkened by the great volume of smoke which enveloped the entire front of the

BONAPARTE WILL SUCCEED MOODY

OTHER CABINET PROMOTIONS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Room 10, Postal Building, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.

Charles J. Bonaparte, whom President Roosevelt has selected to succeed Paul Morton as secretary of the navy on July 1, will probably become attorney general when Mr. Moody retires from that post one year hence. Mr. Bonaparte is an able lawyer and an ardent reformer, just the kind of a man the president believes he needs to hunt bad trusts, rebate givers and dishonest public officials. The department of justice is a better field for that kind of work than the navy department and Mr. Moody has decided to return to the practice of law.

President Roosevelt is highly gratified that John Hay with his health recuperated is coming back to be secretary of state this month, but not even Mr. Hay's closest friends expect his health will permit him to stay throughout the Roosevelt administration. His successor will be Elihu Root of New York if the president can have his way. Unfortunately for the president's desires, Mr. Root is disinclined to return to the cabinet. He left Washington to make money and is now doing it at the rate of $200,000 a year.

Secretary Victor H. Metcalf will go to the navy department to succeed Mr. Bonaparte. Mr. Metcalf is beyond doubt the hardest and most conscientious worker in the cabinet. He has found his work most exacting and as a result needs an easier berth. Fearful of losing Mr. Metcalf, the president, it is said, has decided that the navy department would be the post for him. The vacancy thus caused in the department of commerce and labor will give the president a chance to call into his cabinet James R. Garfield.

It has been announced by Secretary Shaw that he will not remain in the cabinet beyond February 1. This vacancy will most probably be filled by Mr. Cortelyou. The postoffice portfolio will be offered to Col. Harry S. New of Indiana, who has done yeoman service for the party during the last three national campaigns.

MADE FOOLISH MISTAKE.

Russian Captain Says Japanese Are So Cool and Brave as to Be Like Demons When Fighting.

LONDON, June 2.—(Copyright, Cable.)—The Daily Telegraph's Tokyo correspondent says: "The captain of the Danitri Donski when interviewed today, said:

"'I am sure no navy in the world is like that of the Japanese. The non-commissioned officers and men are so cool and brave as to be almost demons, not human beings. Their officers are equally calm and great strategists. The whole combination on sea is immovable as a rock. We made a foolish mistake in trying to force Tsushima straits.'"

MANY INDICTMENTS ARE READY FOR BEEF TRUST

Forty True Bills to Be Presented to the Federal Grand Jury in Chicago.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, June 2.—Forty true bills against the beef trust ranging from multi-millionaire beef barons to salaried department heads and attorneys, will be presented to the federal grand jury to be voted on June 7. Thirty indictments are already drawn for voting under the direct recommendation of Attorney General Moody. Ten more will be drawn upon United States Assistant Attorney General Pagin's return from Washington, according to current report.

Imprisonment of from one to three years and the payment of a $5,000 fine on each count is the punishment the packing princes face in case of indictment and conviction. Armed with a concise summary of the volumes of evidence against the packers, collected and reduced to a synopsis, Mr. Pagin made three separate trips to Washington for the opinions and recommendations of the attorney general.

It is declared that District Attorney C. B. Morrison, who was constantly in the jury room, has secured evidence of wholesale perjury, but it is doubtful whether perjury prosecutions will be started.

READING MAY PURCHASE THIRD RAIL SYSTEM

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKESBARRE, June 2.—Rumors that the Philadelphia & Reading is to purchase the third rail system between Ashley and Hazelton, have been revived by the visit to this region of President Baer and a party of prominent officials of the Reading.

They made a careful trip over the road yesterday and spent some time today about Ashley. The rumors are that the third rail will be extended from Ashley through this city to Scranton over the main line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and that a passenger and freight service will then be run by that route to Hazelton and may connect near there with Philadelphia on the Reading railroad.

In this manner an almost direct route could be secured to Philadelphia, enabling the run to be made in three hours.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

(Copyright, 1905, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, June 2.—The Daily Telegraph has received the following dispatch from its correspondent at Sasebo.

"Admiral Togo had never changed his plan of operations. He had always waited in Tsushima straits, and lay there ready for three months. Admiral Rojestvensky had sent scouting boats to the straits, but the Japanese did not reveal their presence, for in a certain harbor they lay completely hidden from view.

"Admiral Rojestvensky, who arrived here on May 30, had his forehead frontal bone broken by a splinter of a shell. His chest and left thigh are also slightly wounded. Today he received medical treatment at the naval hospital and is now out of danger.

Casualties among the officers of the Japanese fleet are less than 20. On board the Nisshin, which was Vice Admiral Misu's flagship, Misu himself was wounded and Commander Matsu was killed.

CHICAGO MAY NOW OUST TRACTION CONCERNS

CHICAGO, June 2.—Judge Grosscup today refused to continue the temporary injunctions to prevent Mayor Dunne and the city council from proceeding with street railway municipalization, pending a decision of the United States supreme court. Judge Grosscup's refusal leaves the city administration free to give notice to oust the traction companies from streets on which it is claimed franchises have expired.

PENNSYLVANIA TO PUT ON FASTEST TRAIN IN WORLD

As he was leaving six horses of the escort shied, throwing and slightly injuring the troopers.

ISSUES POOLED AGAINST FRICK

The Hyde and Alexander Factions Combine and Defeat Report.

DIRECTORS RESIGN

ANOTHER SOLUTION OFFERED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, June 2.

By a coalition of the Hyde and Alexander factions in the directorate of the Equitable Life Assurance society today, the report of the Frick investigation committee was rejected, and three of the members of the committee, angered by the turn affairs had taken, resigned as officers of the society.

Those directors who resigned were Henry C. Frick, Cornelius N. Bliss and E. H. Harriman. The remaining members of the Frick committee, Melville E. Ingalls and Brayton Ives, both of whom were fiercely attacked by Mr. Hyde during the meeting, are also expected to quit the Equitable directorate.

The meeting at which this action was taken was a stormy one, and at times the talk was so plain that it verged on accusations of criminality. Mr. Harriman in particular, was singled out by Mr. Hyde as the target for attack. It was because the Frick committee recommended the abolition of the "deferred dividend" system of doing business that the committee report was cast aside.

"One Man Control" Must Go.

A committee comprising D. O. Mills, John A. Stewart, A. J. Cassatt, T. Jefferson Coolidge, August Belmont, J. P. Morgan and Robert T. Lincoln, was appointed by resolution to nominate a candidate for chairman of the board, a position to be created with plenary powers over all departments of the society. This committee will report next Wednesday to the board of directors, who will select a man for the chairmanship from among the many submitted for their consideration. Melville E. Ingalls' name will not go on the list.

The resolution also said: "That Mr. James Hazen Hyde be requested within three months to divest himself of the control of the stock of the society on such terms and conditions as shall be satisfactory." This is intended to mean that the directors would have the "one man control" dispensed with, but tonight no one was in a position to tell how this stock was to be purchased or at what figure. Mr. Hyde had an offer of several million dollars for his holdings.

In the meanwhile, it would appear that neither James W. Alexander, Mr. Hyde nor Gage E. Tarbell are to be disturbed as officeholders.

Calm Preceded Storm.

Thirty-seven determined men, members of the board of directors, faced one another for nearly five hours today and battled for their own and against the convictions of their fellow board members, but all with what they considered the best interests of the society itself uppermost in their minds.

Introductory to this remarkable gathering, as it subsequently turned out to be, the first three hours of the session were as calm and dignified as gatherings of this sort are prone to be. The board members were then listening to logical and dignified speeches of men who argued against the upsetting of long years of insurance methods, the doing away with the system of "deferred dividend" payments, as the Frick committee suggested. There were speeches wherein men who had been accused of grievous errors and extravagances unpleasantly defended themselves against those accusations.

That was the beginning; the lull before a storm, that broke over the heads of those 37 men and drove anger to their faces. It came at a time when it was seen that the carefully prepared report of the Frick committee was to be thrown to the winds. A chairman of the board was to be nominated by a committee of seven. Mr. Hyde objected to a committee naming the man for the chairmanship.

Made a Bitter Attack.

Then followed a bitter attack on the part of Mr. Hyde against Melville E. Ingalls. It was an attack upon Mr. Ingalls' personality and Mr. Hyde further charged Mr. Ingalls with having given information concerning the Frick committee report to a newspaper man. This Mr. Ingalls vehemently denied and a war of bitter words followed.

Disgusted with the opposition that had been shown during the arguments to his committee report and with the attacks made upon the committeemen by Mr. Hyde, whom he charged with bad faith and practically with being traitors to him, Henry C. Frick arose and resigned, and was followed by Cornelius N. Bliss. Talking umbrage at the words of Mr. Hyde and after a controversy that lasted several minutes, E. H. Harriman hastily drafted his own resignation and vented it to Mr. Alexander. Those were incidents that concluded a day of turmoil in the affairs of the Equitable society.

Mr. Alexander, as president of the Equitable, had requested that he be heard in defense of himself of the strictures passed upon him in the Frick committee's report. This was granted, and when the meeting was called to order Mr. Alexander was told he would be heard. Mr. Alexander arose and drew from a pocket a statement which he had prepared.

Hyde Meeting a Crisis.

Mr. Alexander referred to the underwriting syndicates, in which he had been an honest participant, and said he still believed his position in this respect could not be attacked. Then the speaker took up the financial standing of the company and pointed out that the society's business during the last five years had shown a vast improvement over that done during the preceding 10 years.

Mr. Hyde was then given a hearing. "I am aware," he said, "as you are aware, gentlemen, that I am just now passing a crisis in my life. When this unfortunate controversy began I made up my mind that I would bear my trouble patiently and with the dignity befitting the office which I hold." But my patience has reached its limit and the welfare of this society requires me to speak out and in no uncertain tones, in defense of my good name."

He then took up the details and charges contained in the Frick committee's report, as far as they affected him. Raising his hand impressively and drawing himself up to his full height, he faced Mr. Frick as he made the following declaration:

"If any honest man can find in anything contained in the evidence presented to this committee a single word or fact that can be construed into wrongdoing, I will surrender my stock and retire from my office in the Equitable society."

Bitter Attack on Ingalls.

Mr. Hyde, continuing, said he had been trustful of those who had professed to be his friends, and that he had already been sufficiently punished for having put his trust in some of them. Mr. Hyde began a tirade against Mr. Ingalls, indulging in personalities. His attack upon Mr. Ingalls was most bitter and he denounced him roundly. The directors listened to the youngest man present in utter amazement.

"Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad," Mr. Ingalls said, addressing Mr. Hyde, when he got an opportunity to be heard.

"Are you God?" asked Mr. Hyde, savagely.

Then came a vote to have the board of directors select the chairman of the board, instead of giving that power to the committee of seven. This was carried by a vote of 24 to 13. It showed the Hyde control.

It was at this juncture that Mr. Frick, with considerable agitation, arose and announced that he resigned as a member of the board. His reason was that he had heard Mr. Hyde's attack upon the honesty of purpose of the committee, and he declared that never again, so long as he lived, would he sit in a board which Mr. Hyde was a member. Cornelius N. Bliss followed with his resignation a moment later, and gave the same reason for his withdrawal.

Right on top of this Mr. Hyde became involved in a controversy with E. H. Harriman. Mr. Hyde had made a remark about men resigning," a remark that Mr. Harriman resented, as reflecting upon his associates. Both men became excited and exchanged several uncomplimentary remarks. This lasted about five minutes, and Mr. Harriman promptly wrote his resignation.

Was Hyde's Own Plan.

It was explained tonight that the resolution asking Mr. Hyde to dispose of his stock at the end of three months was approved by Mr. Hyde, and that it was following out his offer of several weeks ago to place his holdings in trust. Those opposed to Mr. Hyde said it meant that Mr. Hyde must give up his control at the end of that time.

This was the supplementary report filed by the Frick committee today:

In pursuance of the resolution of the board of directors, passed after a discussion of the investigating committee's report at the meeting of May 13, 1905, which resolution reads, "On motion of Mr. Cassatt, seconded by Mr. Forgan, it was resolved that the investigating committee be requested to supplement their report at the meeting on Friday, with such recommendations as they deem wise," the committee makes the following recommendations:

First—That so much of the report as discusses the principles and ethics of life insurance, and the methods of conducting the business of life insurance, be taken under consideration by the president of the society under a new organization, in connection with such other officers of the society, and expert advisers, as he may choose, and that report be made thereon, with recommendations, to the board at as early a day as possible.

Second—The committee also recommends that the board authorize the committee to publish their report.

Third—That the president, vice president and second vice president be requested to forthwith resign their respective offices.

Fourth—The committee also recommends that a committee of seven, consisting of John A. Stewart, D. O. Mills, T. Jefferson Coolidge, A. J. Cassatt, August Belmont, J. S. Forgan and Robert T. Lincoln, be appointed to nominate a president, vice president and second vice president, to report to the board at a meeting to be held on ....., 1905.

At the conclusion of the meeting T. Jefferson Coolidge of Boston met Mr. Frick and said:

"Had I known that you were going to resign I certainly would have tendered my own resignation."

Notwithstanding that Mr. Coolidge was made one of the committee of seven, as suggested by Mr. Frick's committee, it was believed tonight that he, too, would tender his resignation.

MR. HYDE FINALLY MAKES DISCLOSURES

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 2.—In closing up his letter to the Frick committee in response to the call for information on the operations of "Mr. James H. Hyde and Associates" syndicate, Mr. Hyde writes: "There were other banking syndicates, headed by such houses as Speyer & Co. and J. P. Morgan & Co., in which the syndicate known as James H. Hyde and Associates had an interest. I do not give the details of these operations, because the Equitable Life society never purchased any of the securities involved and because, therefore, they are operations which do not concern your committee."

The Frick committee requested information on this matter, however, and under date of April 28, 1905, Mr. Hyde gave the details of a transaction on January 10, 1903, when the James H. Hyde and associates syndicate were allotted $3,000,000 of Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 4 per cent serial debenture bonds by J. P. Morgan & Co. The bonds, it is stated, cost J. P. Morgan & Co. 94 1-2 and interest. The syndicate participants were James W. Alexander, James H. Hyde, George H. Squire, Louis Fitzgerald and W. H. McIntyre. Each of these took an interest of $100,000 and each obtained a profit of $2,284.40, or $11,422 in all.

On January 13, or five days after Morgan & Co. had made the syndicate allotment, the executive committee of the Equitable Life, including among its members Messrs. Alexander and Squire, who were syndicate beneficiaries, voted to purchase $1,000,000 of these bonds from Morgan & Co. on January 15. At a meeting attended by beneficiaries of the syndicate, Squire, Alexander and Hyde, the purchase of $1,000,000 of said bonds was reported at 98 1-2, or four points above the syndicate price of only five days before. These bonds, in fact, were afterward sold at a profit to the society.

The dealings of the James H. Hyde & Associates' syndicate, with Messrs. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., make a lengthy record in the Frick committee's report. This commences with an operation on June 11, 1902, of a participation of $1,000,000 in Metropolitan Street Railway 4s of 1902. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., it is stated, purchased the bonds at 94, on June 18, 1902. $1,000,000 of these bonds were purchased for the society at 97½ and interest. Of the individual participants in the syndicate, Messrs. J. W. Alexander, Valentine P. Snyder, H. C. Deming and G. H. Squire validated the purchase of said bonds by the society.

The bonds were reported as purchased on June 20, 1902, and were delivered by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. on June 6, 1902, at 97½, less ⅛ per cent. They are now quoted at 91½, a loss of some six points. The syndicate made a profit of $30,210 58 on the transaction.

On October 28, 1903, the Hyde and associates' syndicate was allotted $600,000 Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington 4 per cent bonds at par, and Long Island railroad refunding 4s at 94. James W. Alexander, James H. Hyde, George Squire and W. H. McIntyre divided the $600,000 among themselves in blocks of $150,000 each.

Two days later, on October 30, 1903, at a meeting, at which Messrs. Alexander and Squire, beneficiaries under the syndicate, were present and voting, it was voted that the Equitable Life subscribe $10,000,000 toward the Kuhn, Loeb & Co. syndicate in these bonds. Nineteen days later, or on November 19, 1903, an amount of $1,000,000 of the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington bonds were reported purchased at 104, or 4 points above the syndicate price.

It was agreed in the contract that if the bonds should decline the company should be protected. On January 18, 1904, another block of $1,000,000 bonds were purchased at 104, less one and one half per cent. Various lots of the Long Island refunding 4's in which the syndicate participated at 94 were bought by the company at 98½. The company voluntarily sold the bonds purchased at a profit of $18 07. The syndicate itself made a profit of $11,000 58 on the transaction.

Brown Brothers & Company offered a participation of $250,000 to Mr. Hyde and associates syndicate in Norfolk & Western divisional first lein and general mortgage 4 per cent bonds. There were but two participants in this undertaking, James W. Alexander and James H. Hyde. They divided a net profit of $8,708.

The bonds stood the syndicate at 94½ and interest, and were allotted on October 14, 1904. On October 17, 1904, at a regular meeting of the society, Mr. Hyde present and voting, it was unanimously recommended that $250,000 of these bonds be purchased at 96½, or two points above the syndicate price. The society now holds $1,500,000 of these bonds, appraised at 98½. The last important operation between Kuhn, Loeb & Company and the James H. Hyde and associates syndicate was in reference to Japanese government bonds. On May 6, 1904, there was alloted to the syndicate two lots of Japanese bonds, one of $2,000,000 and the other of $1,250,000. The bonds were taken by Kuhn Loeb & Company and the syndicate at 85.

Both syndicates were identical, and were composed of the Equitable Life, which was occasionally let into a deal itself, James W. Alexander, James H. Hyde, George H. Squire, W. H. McIntyre, H. C. Deming and A. W. Krech. The first allotment netted $25,636 41 to the syndicate, and the second $23,424, the largest proportion in each case, $9,613 26 in the first and $8,784 in the second undertaking, going to the Equitable society.

It is expressly stated in connection with this syndicate that Mortimer L. Schiff brought the underwriting to James H. Alexander personally, who accepted it for Mr. Hyde, for the Hyde and associates' syndicate. Mr. Hyde himself being at that time in Europe.

Still another transaction in Japanese bonds, between Kuhn, Loeb & Co., another Hyde and associates' syndicate, is reported as of November 3, 1904. On this occasion the syndicate was composed of James W. Alexander, James H. Hyde, the Merchants Trust Company, another Equitable trust company. They were allotted £400,000, or $2,000,000. Alexander and Hyde took £180,000 or $900,00 each and the two trust companies were given £20,000 or $100,000 each. The total profits to the syndicate on this deal was $82,-815 13. On December 5, 1904, the Equitable society purchased $1,000,000 of these bonds, which it sold at a good profit.

In Mr. Hyde's letter to Mr. Frick dealing with the syndicate operations it is stated: "In offering these participations to James H. Hyde and associates it was well understood by the bankers that in no case was there any understanding, expressed or implied, that the Equitable was to buy any of these bonds."

The fact that after the syndicate was let into the underwriting, that the society always turned up as a purchaser of the bonds at higher prices, seems a very striking coincidence.

ALEXANDER EQUALLY GUILTY WITH HYDE

Frick Committee Also Says He Covered Up the Actions of the Latter.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 2.—In its recapitulation, the committee says:

"Beginning with the petition of James W. Alexander, Gage E. Tarbell and other officers of the Equitable society, dated February 2, 1905, requesting the board of directors to enfranchise, in the election of directors, the holders of policies of $5,000 and more, as provided by the society's charter, and requesting that legal steps be taken to enfranchise 'all classes and beneficiaries;' and the amended petition of February 7, 1905, requesting that the directors should not re-elect Mr. Hyde as vice president, the committee has endeavored to trace the history of the issues raised by these petitions down to the time when they were settled by the board of directors adopting a new charter and by re-electing Mr. Hyde, together with his associates, in the organization during the last fiscal year.

"The committee finds that the attack made by the officers upon Mr Hyde was designed to further their plan to mutualize the society. In other words, they were willing to have Mr. Hyde fill the responsible office of vice president, notwithstanding the gross irregularities of which they alleged he was guilty, provided their own views were met upon the other question.

"The committee then took up all the charges against the directors, committees and officers of the association for the purpose of determining what it conceived to be its duty, to wit: The character of the present management of the society. Beginning with the source of power in the society—namely, the directors—the committee finds:

"First—That the title of the great majority of the board to their office as directors is open to question under the law of the society, by reason of the fact that the shares of stock held by them were transferred to them for the purpose of qualifying them as directors.

"Second—That this practice of qualifying directors is almost coeval with the existence of the society itself, and further, that there has not been a time for years, when there were enough male stockholders in the corporation owning five shares of stock to constitute the number of directors required by the charter—indeed, at the present date, not more than half enough for that purpose.

"Third—That the directors, in whom the corporate powers of the society are vested by its charter, created by the by-laws certain committees and officers to whom the directors delegated the exercise of substantially all the powers of the society. The committee further finds that the relation of the board of directors to the exercise of the society's powers has been practically nominal since the establishment of the society.

"Fourth—That the directors are responsible for constituting the executive and finance committees of the same persons (except one) thus destroying the check upon and the supervision over the executive committee, which the by-laws provide shall be exercised by the finance committee. The committee recommends the reorganization of these committees.

"Fifth—That the minutes of the proceedings of the executive committee have not been kept in the manner provided by the by-laws, and that, in the conduct of its business there has been a marked absence of that formality which is proper, if not essential, in dealing with a trust of such great magnitude.

"Sixth—That the members of the executive committee named in Mr. Hyde's letter to the committee of April 27, 1905, participated with Mr. Hyde in the profits of the syndicates, detailed in said letter, and are justly indebted to the society for amount of said profits.

"Seventh—As to the president of the society, the committee finds that he concealed from the board of directors his knowledge of the irregular conduct of the vice president in relation to the society's affairs at times when the vice president was a candidate for re-election, and that the president had knowledge of these irregularities, to the extent that the committee finds they existed, and that many of these irregularities were openly encouraged, and participated in by the president.

"Eighth—That the president failed to bring to the attention of the directors, the executive committee or the finance committee his knowledge of the vice president's wrongful acts as detailed in the president's specific charges of May 2.

"Ninth—That the president participated in the profits of the syndicates of James H. Hyde and associates, as detailed in Mr. Hyde's letter of April 27, 1905, and that he is justly indebted to the society in the amount set out in said letter, and that he had knowledge of the syndicates and their purposes, and that, as a member of the executive committee, he, in many instances, participated in the action of the committee in authorizing the purchase of securities in which he was interested, as a member of the banking syndicate making the sale.

STRONGEST SENTENCES OF THE FRICK REPORT

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 2.—Here are some of the strongest sentences in the report of the Frick committee to the Equitable directors:

"Mr. Alexander does not claim to have brought the irregularities of Mr. Hyde to the attention of either the finance committee, the executive committee or the board of directors.

"Mr. Alexander's explanation of this failure to bring these alleged irregularities of Mr. Hyde to the attention of the proper authorities in the society is that he was not aware of them until January, 1905.

"In view of the grave duties and responsibilities and large powers cast upon the president of the society by its by-laws, this explanation in the committee's opinion convicts Mr. Alexander of gross neglect of his duties to the society.

"Transactions of such magnitude, and so numerous, and extending over such a large period of time, and affecting so many of the society's holdings of securities in so many corporations, could not have escaped the knowledge of a president who was giving to the affairs of the society such attention as is contemplated by his acceptance of the office with the powers which it carries with it.

"If Mr. Hyde involved the society in transactions of magnitude without legal authority; if he prevented the president or other officers of the society from participating in the consideration and disposition of matters in respect to which they owed a duty to the society under its charter and by-laws; if he attempted to break down the authority of his superior officers; if he committed the society upon his own responsibility to important transactions such as the purchase of securities; if, without the authority of the society, he has taken in his own name large amounts of its securities, if he has used the society's funds improperly for the payment of his own personal expenses or to gratify his own personal tastes or vanity, and if he has combined with others to make secret profits out of transactions with the society through syndicates or otherwise, or in short, if he is guilty of one half of what is charged against him in Mr. Alexander's letter of May 2, 1905, he has shown his entire disqualification for the important and responsible office which he occupies.

"Upon the other hand, it is equally sure that anyone holding a position of trust in the society, who had knowledge of any or all of these practices, is culpable in neglecting or failing to disclose his knowledge thereof to the board of directors.

"The committee finds that the direct and indirect advance to agents have been in many cases excessive and beyond the point of safety and prudence, and that the immediate responsibility therefor rests upon the second vice president."

On the question of the society's solvency the report says:

"While your committee has in this report, freely criticised the management of the society, it wishes to here reiterate the statement of its chairman in his circular letter to the policy-holders, under date of May 2, 1905, that whatever of mismanagement may have existed in the society, it has in no way impaired its condition of perfect solvency as shown on its annual report.

"We are of the opinion that the values at which some of the society's holdings of real estate are carried on its books are too high, particularly in regard to some of its own office buildings. We are also of the opinion that in a final settlement there will be some losses through the advances to agents. But no imaginable shrinkage in the value of these, or of any of its other assets, could impair the society's ability to promptly meet its every maturing obligation.

"The correction of the faults of management of which we have spoken should not only rid every policy-holder by decreasing his cost of insurance, but should give added strength to the society's already strong financial position."

FINDS HYDE GUILTY OF IRREGULAR ACTS

The Committee Also Condemns Loose Manner in Which Equitable Is Managed.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Frick committee continuing its recapitulation says:

"Tenth—As to the vice president, the committee finds that he habitually involved the society in transactions of great magnitude without the previously obtained authority of the executive committee; that he carries large amounts of stocks belonging to the society in his own name without having first secured the authority of the society; that he used the funds of the society to pay for the Cambon dinner (which he subsequently returned); that he conducted and participated in the profits of the syndicate described in his letter of April 27, 1905, having frequently, as a member of the executive committee, voted for the purchase of such securities as shown in said letter in detail; that he is indebted to the society to the amount of the profits he has received, as shown by his letter, and that he has been guilty of other irregular acts, irregular in the sense that they are not in accordance with the society's law or with sound business practices, treating the society and its affairs largely as if they were his own personal concern.

"Eleventh—As to the other officers of the society, the committee finds that a general looseness has prevailed in the administration of the society's affairs, requiring prompt and thorough rectification, and that there is a general lacking in the organization of that strong moral fiber so essential for the accomplishment of satisfactory results.

"Twelfth—The committee also finds that the society's methods of doing business are unsystematic and should be corrected, that the cash balances carried by the society are excessive, that the society's alliances with financial institutions are unnecessary and undesirable in the conduct of its legitimate business, that the advantages it derives, directly and through financial institutions, in which the society is interested, are excessive and that the society's efforts should be directed to conducting a strictly legitimate life insurance business at the lowest cost to the insured along the general lines hereinbefore indicated.

"This imperative need in this and all other similar associations is a more lively sense of the true nature of the relations existing between the society and the assured and of the duties owing by the management to both.

"When we consider that the fabulous accumulations held by such associations represent a voluntary tax placed by the provident upon their lives, and when we recall the tremendous self denial and sacrifice that is represented in daily living to secure provision against the inevitable, then we begin to realize the high and delicate nature of the trust involved in the administration of such a fund. Every economy consistent with sound administration and normal progress should be practiced. Excessive salaries, excessive commissions, excessive expenses and superfluous offices should not be tolerated.

"Investments should be carefully made and all the useful formal precautions employed to insure the location of the moral responsibility of the officers who are charged with the duty of making them. The committee, having pursued its investigation of the present management of the society sufficiently far to be convinced that the control of the management should be radically changed, and the methods of conducting the business of the society brought back to sound legal and ethical lines, begs to be relieved from further duty.

"The committee desires, however, to recommend that further investigation as indicated in its chairman's letter of April 8 to Mr. Alexander, which the committee did not find necessary to pursue before making this report, be proceeded with by a reorganized management, whose immediate connections with the sources of information, undivided time for the work and personal responsibility for the future management will enable them to conduct the investigation more thoroughly, expeditiously and satisfactorily than it would be possible for the committee to do. The committee also recommends that the new management have a thorough audit made of all the society's books and records.

"If other irregularities in the present management are brought to light they will be only cumulative, and therefore, could not affect, one way or the other, the finality of the conclusions expressed above."

SCATHING LANGUAGE IN THE FRICK REPORT

All Phases of the Equitable Scandal Are Fully Covered in the Findings of the Committee.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 2.—In a document of great length the Frick investigating committee has made a report of its findings in connection with the affairs of the Equitable. All the correspondence which took place between the committee and the officers of the society is printed in full, together with the charges made by Messrs. Alexander and Hyde against each other. The Tarbell phase of the scandal is covered at length, and the result of it all is that each of the men prominent in the scandal has been condemned for some part he has taken in the affairs leading to the controversy.

Scathing terms are applied to Mr. Alexander for what is termed his neglect of the duties of his high position. Mr. Hyde is blamed for his part in many transactions, and charges made against him by Mr. Alexander are in some cases upheld, while in others he is completely exonerated. Mr. Tarbell is held responsible for going beyond the point of safety and prudence in his dealings with agents.

On the question of Mr. Hyde's alleged irregularities, as charged by Mr. Alexander, the report quotes Mr. Alexander as saying, among other things: "Mr. Hyde has acquired a wide celebrity and unpleasant notoriety by reason of his operations and enjoyments of a more or less public nature, which is exceedingly hurtful to the company, disquieting to its policy-holders and discouraging to its agents. And this notoriety cannot be said to be a misfortune that has overtaken him, because he has cultivated it, striven for it, and even used the instrumentalities that he commands in the achievement."

Mr. Alexander continues the enumeration of the charges of extravagance, the carrying of personal employes on the society's payroll, and neglect of duty, which are well known.

In discussing the "Hyde & Associates" transactions, the committee says:

"In his letter to the committee dated April 27, 1905, Mr. Hyde admits that he, together with Mr. James W. Alexander and the other officers named by him, was a member of a syndicate known as 'James H. Hyde and Associates' which in seven different instances was a member of underwriting syndicates which sold the securities underwritten to the Equitable society at an advance in prices which yielded Mr. Hyde and his associates, as participants in the underwriting syndicate, in the aggregate a profit of $155,-444 98. These sales were made almost immediately after the allotment to the Hyde syndicate of its share of the underwritten securities.

"In one case only three days intervened. In this course of dealing with a corporation which they were serving in positions of the highest trust and delicacy these officials were guilty of a breach of propriety and a serious breach of trust, which, so far as the principle of the thing is concerned, is not mitigated by the fact that the society has lost nothing by the transactions, but is the gainer by reason of the subsequent increase in the market value of the securities which it purchased.

"The committee has been advised by Mr. Hyde that he has deposited with the cashier of the society his check for $81,-246.92, the amount of his share of the profits on the aforementioned transactions, with the request that the board decide whether those profits rightfully belong to himself or to the society. The committee recommends that the board inform Mr. Hyde that, in its opinion, these profits were obtained in violation of the rights of the society, and that therefore he is indebted to the society in an amount equal to the profits in question, and that his check for that amount will be placed to the credit of the society.

"The committee finds as a fact that the syndicate operations were conducted as described in Mr. Hyde's letter of April 27 for the benefit of the persons and in the proportions therein named, and that said persons received the respective amounts detailed by Mr. Hyde, and that such of them who were directors and members of the executive committee at the time the purchase of said securities were authorized, are likewise indebted to the society in such amounts with interest.

On the Alexander charges against Hyde the report says:

"These charges constitute a serious arraignment of Mr. Hyde. They involve his personal and official integrity and they allege a condition of affairs in the management of the society that is in utter defiance of all the safeguards provided by its charter, its bylaws, the general rules of law and sound business practices. So open, flagrant, obvious, persistent and dangerous are the practices of which Mr. Hyde is accused that the establishment of their truth convicts of equal guilt all who were cognizant of their existence and failed promptly to set about their correction.

"From letters of Mr. Alexander to Mr. Hyde, which the committee has examined the committee finds that he flattered and encouraged Mr. Hyde in methods wholly vicious and tending to autocracy in the administration of the society's affairs.

"The committee also finds that so far as Mr. Alexander's charge against Mr. Hyde is true, namely, that he has displayed a strong personal ambition and an inordinate and unsafe love of prominence a great responsiveness to flattery, a phancy in the hands of persons whose interests are not necessarily parallel to those of the policy holders of the society, that Mr. Alexander is largely responsible.

"The committee finds that many of the charges of Mr. Alexander against Mr. Hyde are true, or measurably true. The evidence submitted satisfies the committee:

"First—That Mr. Hyde has habitually involved the society in transactions, especially of purchase of securities, which were of great magnitude without the previously obtained authority of the executive committee.

"Second—That he carries large amounts of stock belonging to the society in his own name without there appearing any minute of any act of directors or committee authorizing it.

"Third—That he has used the funds of the society to pay for certainly one social entertainment given in his name and the name of one other director of the society.

"Fourth—That he has shared in the profits made by banking syndicates in effecting sales of securities to the society at a time when he was a member of the committee which made the purchase, he frequently voting for the same.

"Fifth—That he has been guilty of other acts which were irregular, and not in compliance with the society's law or with sound business practices.

"The committee has fully considered Mr. Hyde's explanations of these charges. In the main he seeks to exonerate himself by pleading the custom of the society, the participation of others, the return of money improperly acquired or used, and the beneficial results to the society. As it is the function of the committee to determine what is wrong in the society's management, Mr. Hyde's arguments cannot avail. The practices he has pursued are wrong. The fact that others have pursued them or acquiesced in them only convicts them of equal guilt."

Prompt Payment

In the early days of the Equitable, its founder, Henry B. Hyde, said:

"Losses by death need not disturb us in the least—The Equitable is in business to pay losses."

Adhering to this principle the Equitable's policy has always been to pay its claims immediately upon receipt of satisfactory proofs of death—During 1904 the record of claims paid was as follows:
Total claims paid.....5,476
Paid within one day..4,384
Paid within one week.4,971
Paid within one month 5,364
Practically the only thing that ever delays the payment of an Equitable claim is a defect in the proofs of death—necessitating further correspondence.

It's a great satisfaction to know that if anything should happen to you there would not be haggling or delay in providing your estate with ready money to meet the emergency.

PRESIDENT MAKES MOVE FOR PEACE

EMPEROR WILL BE NOTIFIED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The president today struck a blow for peace in the far east. In a conference at the White House this afternoon with Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, the president expressed the earnest hope that Russia would forthwith conclude peace with Japan. Prolongation of the war, he believes, will not result in victory for the Russian arms, and can only serve to increase Japan's demands and render more difficult the drafting of a treaty of peace which the czar as well as the mikado can sign.

The president spoke, he said, as the friend of Russia, no less than of Japan, and on behalf not only of the Washington government, but in the interest of humanity. Until his words have reached Tsarskoe-Selo and have been communicated to Emperor Nicholas in the friendly spirit in which they were uttered, their effect cannot be estimated.

Soon after reaching his embassy, Count Cassini began the preparation of a dispatch to his government.

The president did not enter into details, but the personal character of the conversation and his long acquaintance with Count Cassini enabled him to talk plainly regarding the decisive character of the Japanese victories. What Japan's probable peace terms would be the president was wholly unable to say, but he did not hesitate to express the opinion that, difficult as these conditions might prove in the light of such a victory as that gained in the Korean straits, they would increase in severity with every day that a state of war continued.

Having received no word from his government since the annihilation of Rojestvensky's fleet, save the brief official dispatches telling of the engagement, Count Cassini was unable to do more than to give the president his own personal opinions on the situation. He could not see, he said, that there was anything in the present situation, unfortunate as it undoubtedly was for his government, which necessitated Russia's suing for peace. As to territory, he pointed out that China and not Russia had been the loser, for even Port Arthur was held only under lease. On the sea, Russia had nothing more to lose, he said. There was hope yet of a victory for the Russian arms, and in any event, Russia had not yet lost one foot of territory nor was the Russian frontier endangered.

The ambassador pointed out that there was not the slightest official information from any source as to Japan's probable terms, and that these demands, as stated unofficially, were "altogether impossible." If Japan's terms should prove anything like as severe as they have been reported, it was the ambassador's opinion Russia could advantageously continue the war indefinitely, and eventually win a victory on land. That his government would so decide he did not wish to predict, but at last accounts the emperor was for a continuation of the war.

When Count Cassini leaves Washington for St. Petersburg early in July he will be the bearer of a personal message from the president to the emperor.

TOGO'S VICTORY BROADENS THE JAPANESE HORIZON

Mikado's Operations May Now Have Practically Free Course in All Czar's Maritime Provinces.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

TOKYO, June 2.—With the destruction of Russia's naval power Togo's victory tremendously alters the military situation, and removes all limits of offensive operations against Russia's maritime provinces. It is now possible effectively to close Vladivostok, seize Sakhalin, the mouth of the Amur river, Kamchatka, and any point between the Tumen river and the Arctic circle the Japanese may desire.

"Togo's victory may drive Russia away from the Pacific coast of Asia. Japan now has a free hand in Russia's maritime provinces, and her offensive capability is unlimited. Nothing bars the way except the Russian force at Vladivostok, whose speedy isolation is possible. The Amur river is now open to the Japanese, and Russia's defensive capability is now entirely limited to the capacity of the Chinese-Siberian railway."

Pursuers Sent Out by Togo Return Empty-Handed—Loss of the Jemtchug Has Been Confirmed.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

TOKYO, June 2.—Admiral Togo, telegraphing yesterday, says: "The ships sent northward to search for Russian ships returned yesterday. The cruisers Iwate and Yakumo and other vessels sent southward to find Russian ships returned today. They thoroughly searched the Shanghai source from Tsushima and vicinity, but on both sides found no trace of the Russians."

Admiral Shimamura, on board the cruiser Iwate, reports:

"During the battle on May 27 the cruiser Iwate vigorously attacked the protected cruiser Jemtchug at a distance of 3,000 meters. The Jemtchug sank in one minute."

EXPOSED RUSSIAN HULLS MADE SPLENDID TARGETS

LONDON, June 3.—The correspondent at Tokyo of the Daily Mail cables: "Owing to the heavy sea in the earlier part of the engagement, the Russian hulls were disclosed below the waterline, presenting a good target, and enabling the Japanese guns to usurp the functions of torpedoes."

THE JAPANESE ARMY BEGINS ITS ADVANCE

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—Gen. Linevitch, in a dispatch to Emperor Nicholas, dated May 31, says: "On May 29 the Japanese began an advance and attacked our troops in the valley of the Tsin river, about three miles beyond Fenshu pass, which remained in our hands."

RUSSIA ASKS FOR LIST OF HER CASUALTIES

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—In order to relieve the suspense of thousands of families Russia has appealed to France to secure through the French minister at Tokyo the most complete list of the Russian officers and men who perished or were saved. The fate of hundreds will probably never be established.

ROJESTVENSKY TAKEN HIDING AND BLEEDING

Destroyer on Which He Had Been Placed Tried to Break Enemy's Line.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1905, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, June 2.—The Daily Telegraph has received from its correspondent at Sasebo the following narrative of the circumstances under which Admiral Rojestvensky was captured:

He was at first on board his flagship, the Knjaz Souvaroff. From the beginning of the battle he fought with magnificent courage; but on May 28 his flagship became separated from the remainder of the fleet. For a time she was the solitary target of the Japanese fleet, and it was soon evident she must speedily sink. Therefore the admiral, with eight of his staff officers, was removed to the destroyer Biedovy.

Rojestvensky, having fled from his flagship, was now the target of the combined fleet. The destroyer, now the admiral's flagship, attempted to break away, first pointing her head one way, then another in her efforts to find a gap in the ring of ships and guns.

The Japanese destroyer Sasanami advanced from the lines to meet the admiral's destroyer, and poured in a terrible and close fire. The Biedovy became disabled and was unable to use her steering gear, which had been rendered useless.

It was now that Rojestvensky and his chief of staff were wounded again, and this time the admiral was seriously injured. The Biedovy was boarded by a crew of the Sasanami. The Japanese searched high and low. All the Russians on the Biedovy were made prisoners, and Rojestvensky was the last man to be discovered. He was found hiding in the bottom of the destroyer, bleeding freely from many wounds.

WILL HURRY THE WORK ON MIGHTY PROJECT

Directors Hope to Start Excavating for Erie Canal Early Next Year.

Work on the Lake Erie and Ohio river ship canal and its sister project, the Ohio and Pennsylvania ship canal, is proceeding daily. The directors of the organizations are holding meetings every few days. A meeting of the directors of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Ship Canal Company was held yesterday afternoon, after which President John E. Shaw gave out the following interview:

Many questions have been addressed to the officers and directors of the company as to when the work on the canal would begin, and also when a detailed financial prospectus would be issued to the public. By direction of the board of directors, I have to say that the work of constructing the canal began on May 4, when the charter was granted and the engineers commenced their surveys. It is necessary to have the whole ground gone over most thoroughly by the company's own engineers. They will be occupied for several months in completing their location surveys, and when this is accomplished there will be a choice of routes available.

Until it is definitely known just on what line the canal is to be constructed it is obvious that no prospectus can be issued to the public. The location surveys will have to be followed by others before the contracts for excavation can be let. These other surveys will deal with the location and size and character of the locks, reservoirs and other matters, and furnish the basis for the specifications for the contractors. The work of the engineers will furnish much business for the officers and directors, but the latter will at the same time devote much attention to the question of financing the project.

It is the expectation of the management that the surveys will be completed and the necessary financial arrangements made so that contracts for the excavating of the canal can be let and the work of digging be begun early next year, or as soon as the frost of the coming winter is out of the ground. Long before that time, however, the company will issue a definite and complete prospectus to the public.

WOULD HAVE NEBOGATOFF SHOT FOR HIS COWARDICE

Feeling Against Admiral Who Surrendered Runs High Among Russian Authorities.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 3.—Feeling in the admiralty against Rear Admiral Nebogatoff continues to run high, the majority of the naval authorities being deaf to the appeals of the few who insist that the admiral's action in surrendering his warships should not be condemned until the circumstances become fully known. The majority say they could forgive anthing but surrender, and point to the precedent set in the case of the Russian warship Raphael, which in 1829, during the Russo-Turkish war, struck its colors to three Turkish ships which surrounded it.

Nicholas I. meted out a terrible punishment to the officers and crew of the Raphael, ordering that all of them should be shot after their exchange, and directing that if the ship should ever be recaptured its infamous history should be blotted out by the total destruction of the vessel. The Raphael, strange to say, was recaptured 34 years later at Sinope, during the Crimean war, a son of the captain who surrendered her taking part in the battle. To this son fell the task of executing the dead emperor's orders to destroy the vessel. Many naval authorities declare the emperor should reserve the same fate for Admiral Nebogatoff.

While hope for the safety of the protected cruisers Oleg and Aurora has been generally abandoned, some of the naval authorities believe it possible their commanders, realizing the fleet had been practically destroyed and that Vladivostok as a harbor of refuge would only prove a death trap in the end, laid their course either for Nicholaieff, at the mouth of the Amur river, or for Petropalvlosk in Kamchatka.

COMPANY ORGANIZES TO MAKE NEW PROCESS STEEL

Richard Jones of Parkersburg, W. Va., a former resident of McKeesport, has organized a company in the latter place for the manufacture of steel by a new and cheaper process, divulged to him by John B. Hastings, who died recently at Parkersburg. McKeesporters interested in the concern, which is capitalized under the laws of West Virginia at $200,000, are County Recorder O'Neil, George H. Lysle, John W. Painter, Theodore Tonelle and D. G. Donovan. Non-expandable steel will be the principal product. It is said that successful tests were made recently at Duquesne and Braddock.

NEW YORK, June 2.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease, lecturer and vehement advocate of woman's rights, went to police headquarters today to identify the man who was said to have robbed her. Womanlike, she fainted at the sight of him, but identified him before she swooned. The man, Harry Goldfrale, has confessed.

WHY RUSSIANS WERE WHIPPED

Japanese Naval Expert Discusses Cardinal Causes That Led to Rojestvensky's Defeat.

SUPERNATURAL ENTERS IN

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

TOKYO, June 2.—The cardinal causes of Rojestvensky's defeat have been the subject of general discussion here. One Japanese expert gives the following analysis:

"First, an imperfect reconnoissance, and incomplete, faulty and misleading intelligence.

"Second, an imperfect battle formation, which indicated Rojestvensky did not expect to meet Togo off Tsushima.

"Third, the weather, the direction of the wind and the sunlight were unfavorable to the Russians, Togo having the sun behind him and firing with the wind, while the Russians had the sunlight in their eyes and fired against the wind.

"Fourth, the Russians wasted their ammunition and eventually ran short. It is believed the surrender of Nebogatoff was necessary because his ammunition had been expended.

The impression prevails that Rojestvensky was totally unaware of the presence of Togo's entire fleet off Tsushima. Many believe it was necessary for Togo to take a station at a pivotal point from which it would be possible to intercept the Russians entering either Tsushima, Tsugaru or Soya channels. Calculations placed this pivotal point on the west coast, near the western entrance of Tsugaru channel. Togo's real whereabouts were known to many Japanese, but the secret was successfully guarded—another example of the willingness and ability of the Japanese to preserve military secrets.

Many ascribe the victory entirely to the superior marksmanship of the Japanese. Togo, realizing it would probably be necessary to fight in the open sea, gave his crews long training in firing in rough weather with a heavy wind blowing and the ships rolling. When the hostile fleets met, the superiority of the Japanese immediately became evident. The sinking of battleships and armored cruisers by shell fire testifies to the deadly accuracy of the Japanese guns, and destroys the theory it is impossible to sink ships by shell fire.

The attitude of Japanese naval men towards victory is curious. Togo's message to the emperor, saying the victory was the result of the emperor's superhuman influence, strikes the keynote of the navy's attitude. The officers openly say the marvelous result obtained was impossible by mere human achievement alone.

COUP OF ACHESON MEN.

Secure Adoption of Resolution for Change to Popular Vote System Ahead of Primaries.

CHARLEROI, June 2.—(Special.)—On the eve of the Republican primaries in this county there is excitement in Charleroi over a coup executed by members of a faction, which is supposed to represent the Acheson wing of the party. In accordance with the party rules a suggestion meeting was held last evening to suggest candidates for delegates to the county convention and for committeemen. A resolution was adopted instructing the delegates to the convention to introduce and work for a resolution changing the party rules so as to substitute a popular vote for the delegate system of choosing candidates.

Feeling in the Monongahela valley, and especially in Charleroi, is against the delegate system. The system, however, is favored by the organization here. This evening it was discovered that members of the organization faction have already arrung a slate of delegates and have had tickets printed. These will be circulated in advance of the primaries tomorrow.

WILSON PUT ON TRIAL LIST.

Allegheny Graft Cases Will Occupy Court's Attention Again Tuesday.

Police Captain James Wilson of Allegheny will be placed on trial again Tuesday, charged with extortion and aiding and abetting in maintaining a disorderly house. The district attorney has not decided which case he will call on Tuesday, and as there are several counts against Wilson he can elect to try any one of them.

Attorneys Haymaker and Marron had special officers out yesterday serving subpoenas on witnesses in the cases to be called. The attorneys met and had a general discussion on the plans to be pursued, but would say nothing about them to any person until after the cases now on the criminal docket are disposed of. A number of cases against women charged with keeping disorderly houses also are to be tried soon.

MOONSHINERS BURN THEIR PURSUERS' HACK

GREENVILLE, S. C., June 2.—Revenue officers returning from the dark corner section of Greenville county, where they were searching for illicit stills, report harsh treatment at the hands of a gang of moonshiners. The officers' turnout, a large hack which seated 15 persons, was spirited away one dark night by the whisky makers, carried into the fastnesses of the mountains, cut to pieces and burned. The revenue men were fired on repeatedly by concealed moonshiners.

Will Go Over Battle Ground.

Monongahela Beaujeu, the French author, who has written a history of Braddock's defeat from the French standpoint, has written the Rev. George E. Hawes, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, Braddock, that he will visit Braddock in the near future and go over the ground of the famous encounter. M. Beaujeu had an ancestor in the battle. The Rev. Mr. Hawes is making a translation of the Frenchman's book, entitled "Equisse Histoire."

A Saturday Study of the Wardrobe Trunk

All who intend making a lengthy journey this Summer—men and women—are requested to take some time during their leisure and consider what we have to say of the wardrobe trunk.

Our Trunk Store sells only one make—the Mendel Wardrobe Trunk. There are others, but none of them compare in any way with the Mendel Trunk.

This Mendel Wardrobe Trunk is built to withstand all attacks of the baggage man. It is not only strong, but it is a sightly trunk. It is a composite affair—at home a wardrobe and chiffonier, while traveling, a capacious trunk.

The strong point about a wardrobe trunk is that you don't have to unpack it and set it away—you simply stand it on end and it becomes, as we have said, a chiffonier. Men can put into it, just as they put into a wardrobe, everything they require, and women can do the same.

A lady who has just returned from California told us she never had anything with her that gave her so much satisfaction.

If, after reading this, you become interested in the trunk, nothing would give us greater pleasure than to have you step to our Trunk Store and let us demonstrate to you its great advantages.

There are wardrobe trunks that sell for $19.49, or some other grotesque fractional price, but the Mendel Wardrobe Trunk is not one of that kind. It is built along lines of durability. It is intended to last its owner many years.

The only trouble we have had with the Mendel Trunk is to keep up the supply for men and women.

Saturday, June 3, 1905.

After 20 years of constant loyalty to the Conservative-Unionist party, the Whitby division has been carried by the Liberals by a majority of about 450. The campaign was fought on the fiscal issue, clearly indicating the unpopularity of the tariff in that division. It is another added to the unmistakable signs presaging the downfall of the Balfour government in the near future.

President Castro's message, read by himself to his Venezuela congress yesterday, is characteristic of the man. It is an expression of sublime assurance in his own arts. The reference to unpleasantness with the United States is deceptive and misleading. It sounds a note of impudent pleasantry in its veiled allusion to the Bowen-Loomis broil, which was probably adroitly instigated by himself. Castro is the most remarkable among the long list of South American upstart potentates and, withal, a dangerous man in his cunning.

It is stated that new plans for the raising of the Allegheny river bridges have been prepared and forwarded to Secretary Taft at Washington. The new plans call for an elevation of 47 feet instead of the 52 originally demanded. It is claimed this raising will not disturb any street grades. It will, however, impose an additional burden upon traffic and it does not provide for payment of costs or damages. Under this new plan, no less than under the former, it is proposed to take or to destroy private property without just compensation. Moreover, the new plan controverts all of the old claims of necessity for raising the bridges just so many feet.

Servia threatens a rupture of diplomatic relations with Turkey unless immediate amends are made for the recent violation of the consulate at Monastir. For a country which has created diplomatic connections in other quarters with so much difficulty, Servia shows remarkable courage in this instance. The whole matter might be treated as opera bouffe were it not for the disturbed condition of the Balkan states and Turkish possessions. A slight spark may start a real conflagration in that quarter and, insignificant as Servia appears, it might supply that spark, Russia being in no position to quench the flame and the European balance being seriously affected.

Official Great Britain is considerably disturbed by the Moroccan rejection of the French program of reforms. It is hoped in London that France will swallow its chagrin and join in a general conference of the powers, but if it refuses to do so Great Britain will refuse also. In Paris the populace is so wrought up over the attempt on King Alfonso's life it has given little attention to the Morocco report. This has probably averted a burst of indignation against Germany, but the relief may be merely temporary. In any case serious direct consequences are not anticipated, yet every fresh animosity may have an effect in bringing about an ultimate readjustment of European relations, disturbed as they have been by Russia's misfortunes.

The Frick report acted upon the Equitable management like a charge of dynamite and it may take some time before its shattering effect can be fully measured. When the report was rejected by the board, Mr. Frick resigned and others will follow. The board, however, adopted a resolution requesting Mr. Hyde to divest himself of the control of the stock, which in justice to the policy-holders is what he ought to do, but he appears to regard the policy-holders as so much live stock upon a farm inherited by him and he will hardly yield save under compulsion. If the charter requirements as to eligibility of directors were strictly enforced his power of filling the board with dummy directors would be greatly diminished, and it may be that before Insurance Commissioner Hendricks gets through that phase of the situation may receive attention. The affair as it stands is extremely discreditable to New York jurisprudence.

The Theater Fire.

A great disaster might have resulted from the burning of the Avenue theater yesterday had not the Pittsburgh audience in the Grand Opera house remained cool. The two play houses are so closely connected as to be almost one. The Opera house audience was alarmed, but not panic stricken, and passed out without injury to a single person. The most serious feature of the affair was the injury of two firemen while fighting the flames.

Sensational stories of the losses sustained were scattered broadcast during the afternoon and sent to out-of-town papers. Insurance men estimate the loss on the Avenue theater at possibly $70,000, the insurance covering all but $10,000 of that amount. Harry Davis' amusement enterprises in the basement were heavily damaged by water. The public will sympathize warmly with the losers, while looking hopefully forward to an ultimate gain. The burned building was an old one, of a type regarded as dangerous to its neighbors. It will probably be replaced by a modern structure as nearly fire-proof as it can be made. That will be an advantage to the city.

Last but not least, the occasion demonstrated the efficiency of the Pittsburgh fire department and the downtown water supply in confining the fire to the building in which it originated. This fact is worthy the attention of the insurance companies which have recently been disposed to tax Pittsburgh "risks" at a burdensome rate. The Pittsburgh hazard has been rated too high.

Uniform Rules.

By agreement of representatives of the Republican county committee and the Republican city committees of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and McKeesport, the September primaries will be open to all persons who voted the Republican national ticket at the election in November last. In other words the city committees have fully accepted the rule adopted some time ago by the county committee and which was urged upon the attention of the Pittsburgh city committee by The Gazette last December and January.

Two distinct advantages have been attained. The rules of the four party organizations within the county are now uniform and the primaries are open to all Republicans. These are indications of the good faith of the Republican organizations in dealing with the people. As they have opened their primaries to the free expression of the public voice in the choice of candidates they are also prepared to accept public opinion as their guide in the matter of policies. In brief the Republican party is the patry of the people, while the Citizens and Democratic factions represent nothing but the organized appetite for spoils.

Russia's Hope in Peace.

Calls of Minister Takahira and Ambassador Cassini upon President Roosevelt are indicative of effort to stop the slaughter in the far east. Japan has long given the impression it is willing to treat for peace whenever Russia signifies it has enough of fighting. It intimates an equal willingness to continue the war until Russia is satisfied. The czar and Count Cassini raise their voices for more war, but may be really anxious for peace, hoping only to secure better terms by a display of belligerence. From St. Petersburg it is reported the zemsky sobor will be convened to decide whether the war shall go on, at once a concession to popular participation in government and an evasion of responsibility. Outside of Russia and Japan there is but one sentiment and that is for peace. All of the civilized powers are ready to lend their good offices to that end.

There are reasons enough why Russia should be ready to accept almost any terms. Two recent incidents would be ample to convince any but the most fatuous ruler. A mutiny in the navy during the battle of the Japan sea, followed by surrender of a force unwilling to fight; a revolt in the army in Manchuria reported by Gen. Linevitch. "A house divided against itself cannot stand." The Japanese are glad to fight their country's battles. They have won every engagement on land or sea and will win every one while such conditions exist. There is no hope for Russia externally or internally except in peace. The terms will be easier now than after Japan invades Russian territory and they should be sufficiently severe to insure Russia keeping the peace for a decade or two.

To Papering Hell, $1,000.

Unless justice is too blind to see a joke, there ought to be considerable hilarity in the dull precincts of our court house when the case is heard against the bill poster who thought the spring housecleaning season an appropriate time to undertake the large contract of papering hell. It isn't the bill poster who is suing to recover that sum for his labor; no, he is being sued for having papered hell and so diminishing its power of attraction $1,000 worth. The case is that of Kirke LaShelle's estate, owners of the play "Checkers," against the American Bill Posting Company. The plaintiffs allege that 120 eight-sheet stands advertising the play bore the inscription: "Gee, ain't it hell to be poor," but that white paper was pasted over the word "hell," deterring many people from visiting the Nixon theater.

Not only is this case a curiosity of the court calendar; it is unique for the illuminating light it will shed upon a variety of human interests—upon the moral sensibility of bill posters, for example, and upon the potent magnetism of sulphurous monosyllables. All through the season the highly moral bill poster has been adorning blank spaces with lurid lithographs picturing every variety of vaudeville pink tights and melodramatic turpitude. The Jolly Grass Widows followed the Biddle Boys, heading a long procession of decollete damsels and horrible homicides. But the one word "hell" suddenly rouses the worm of conscience in this hardened man of the pasteboard, and like the revisers of the creed he tries to put hell out. This is one of the most remarkable cases of deathbed conversion on record, and shows that "while the paste holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return."

Equally startling and suggestive is the implication that a theater's business can be damaged $1,000 worth by leaving the word "hell" out of its advertisements. The old theologians, it is said, used hell to scare people into the church; being now discarded by them, does it serve to lure people into the theaters? Will the plaintiff try to prove damages by producing the people who would have gone to the theater if they had seen the word? The case, it appears, is fraught with infinite possibilities of enlightenment and entertainment.

The Business Situation.

The event of the week was the practical annihilation of the Russian fleet in the far east. Whatever the ultimate political effects may be, the immediate effect upon business will be to stimulate exports from the United States. The Chinese empire is our largest customer for cotton goods. In April last our shipments to China of colored and uncolored cotton goods exceeded 48,000,000 yards, as compared with only 1,041,000 yards in the corresponding month last year. For the same month our shipments to Japan increased from 173,000 to 586,000 yards. This is but one item in our trade with the orient. In May the presence of a hostile fleet in Japanese waters increased the hazards of commerce, and if the Russians had been victorious, trade with Japan at least would have been suspended. While peace prospects are still uncertain, the outcome of the naval battle will certainly shorten the struggle.

Two speculative deals were eliminated from the situation this week which should tend to restore normal conditions to an important branch of trade. These were the "corners" in May wheat and in May corn. The violent fluctuations in the price of these options have had an unsettling effect. They stimulated receipts at primary markets and tended to check exports. There was also the possibility of financial disturbance. The fact that the deals have been closed without more serious consequences is gratifying. The revival of speculation in cotton, which resulted in higher average prices, was based upon unofficial reports as to the acreage and condition of the growing crop. The great decline in price which followed the collapse of overspeculation last year was followed by a movement this year among cotton planters to reduce the acreage in the hope of restoring prices. The extent of this reduction is variously estimated at between 12 and 18 per cent by experts in the trade, while the government report yesterday placed it at 11 per cent. In the stock market trading was dull and professional, and prices were depressed.

There has been a further curtailment of the output of pig iron and the market for the latter continues dull and heavy in tone. A lull is also reported in some finished lines, but conditions do not warrant the conclusion that the trade as a whole has entered upon a long downward movement. This impression has prevailed to some extent in Wall street, and there is little doubt that the reported dissolution of pools and the discussion of possible tariff revision have had some influence in restraining consumers from anticipating future wants; but the large orders on the books of manufacturers and the preparations for increasing producing capacity are undisputed facts. Mercantile trade has not developed the activity looked for. The unseasonable weather and the continuance of the Chicago strike have been adverse factors. The loss entailed by this strike during the past six weeks is roughly estimated at between $12,000,000 and $14,000,000, principally in the shrinkage in business of wholesale and retail merchants.

The soundness of general business conditions is reflected in the decreasing number and amount of liabilities involved in commercial failures. For the month of May, R. G. Dun & Co. report the number at 860, and the liabilities at $8,907,301. This is a decrease of nearly $1,000,000 compared with the liabilities for May, 1904, and a decrease of more than $3,000,000 compared with the same month two years ago. The abundance of loanable funds and the low average rates of discount continue to be features of the money market.

The Kansas oil situation has narrowed to the running gear of her wheat harvesters and threshers.

The dove of peace seems to be spending most of its time merely fluttering over the situation.

Enlarge the committee as they may the Citizens faction bosses cannot conceal themselves.

It will take Philadelphia some time to adjust herself again to the habits of the "simple life."

Mayor Weaver is less considerate than the legislature. "Ripping" has no terrors for him.

It was a lively dre but no holocaust, thanks to the good quality of Pittsburgh nerves.

The Bonapartes have a fine fighting record, but it was usually on land.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Ah, could I sing so sweet a song
As should be sung to thee,
The song the angels sing would cease,
In sheerest ecstasy;
The twinkling stars would stand stock still,
The sun forget to burn,
The sea would cease its troubled roll,
The world refuse to turn;
The flowers would forget to bloom,
The heavens to be blue,
The blades of grass forget to grow,
The amorous to woo;
The happy would forget their smiles,
The sorrowful their tears,
If I could sing so sweet a song
As should be sung to thee.

—The Censor.

It is such tommy-rot as this that causes so many failures in marriage.

If you will just read it again and then think for a few seconds you will see clearly that while it isn't bad love-sick poetry, there isn't one bit of sense in it.

And then if you will keep your mind focused on it a few seconds longer you will also see that it is most deluding sort of stuff.

When a fellow is in love, really and truly, he thinks his heart's idol is about the limit in the way of perfection, sweetness and all that, yet he isn't fool enough to think her presence would stop a clock, much less to stop the stars in their course, nor drive the angelic choir out of business.

Look these lines over again and try to figure out the caliber of the fellow who wrote them, and recall your callow days, just to satisfy yourself as to how daffy you were when first in love.

Any girl will be fully justified in giving the grand bounce to any fellow who flashes up such nonsensical stuff as this, or who talks in a like silly strain. There isn't anything in such stuff but hot air, and you know how quickly it cools, and to what extent it contracts.

A great deal of the love-talk that the fellows whisper or blow into the open and only too willing ears of their sweethearts is hot air, and nothing more.

Fellows do not often, much less always, indulge in this sort of rant for the purpose of fooling or deceiving their sweethearts, since it is a fact that the man who indulges in this sort of thing is as soft and silly as his talk.

Don't mind him, even though his silly words may not offend your ear, because if you do you are liable to catch the disorder with a chance of being carried off by it and dropped in some strange or desert place, such as a hot air balloon might drift to.

If the conversation between the average fellow and his girl for one hour dare be printed it would do more to set young folks to thinking what fools they are than a whole book of philosophy.

How is it with you? Would you be willing to submit the whispered portion of an hour's conversation between yourself and girl for publication?

And after you have had time to collect your senses, are you not usually perfectly willing to expunge the whole talk from the records, except the greeting and the parting?

* * *

This love business is treated entirely too lightly, considering its seriousness. And until folks are so instructed that they can comprehend its seriousness, there will be domestic infelicity galore.

Silly love poetry, portrayals of unreal love scenes on the stage, and foolish talk in the parlor are responsible for much of the marital misery complained of in these advanced times.

Parents talk too lightly in the presence of their children about courtship and marriage. In fact, very few mothers ever talk seriously with their boys and girls concerning courtship and love.

Considering the fact that usefulness and success in life are so dependent upon these, children should be instructed and coached until they are capable of taking care of themselves, or at least to avoid making fools of themselves.

Don't you know mistakes in love affairs are the cause of more misery than any other errors into which men and women are liable to fall?

Ignorance on this score is far more fruitful of misery than is ignorance concerning algebra, grammar and geography, to say nothing of the finishing off studies assigned to those seeking a practical education.

Is there a finishing school anywhere that pretends to give instruction concerning love, courtship and marriage?

It would astonish the oldest resident to learn how many marriages are based on nothing more substantial than hot air talk and foolish sentiment.

And yet our people deplore present conditions and wonder why and wherefore things are as they are.

Is it because the parental hand is not as strong as it used to be that so many young people manage their own social affairs? Do young women consult their mothers before going to picnics and pleasure resorts? And do they consult them before accepting attentions from young men?

Judging from appearances parents do not seem to have much if any say in the love affairs of their children. And yet they pretend to be deeply and heartily interested in their welfare.

What should be done with parents who allow their children to go as they please and do as they please in the matter of choosing their associates, as well as their mates? For what is more essential to success in life than worthy, helpful associates, and fit and proper helpmates?

How is it with your young folks? Do you know who their associates are? Do you know the character of the young man who takes your daughter to public entertainments and calls on her at your home? What do you know of those with whom your boy is associating, particularly the girls he calls on?

Isn't it about time that we begin trying to find out why there are so many failures in marriage, so many homes that are homes only in name, and so many people who are not disposed to erect and develop homes.

Home-building is most important since the home is the chief support of the nation—the home over all of homes. Without prosperous, happy homes the nation cannot be happy and prosperous. Nor will the church prosper as it ought, for it is the vestibule, as it were, to the home over all. It is most essential that the home spirit should be developed if we wish to enjoy our national home or our heavenly home.

Are our young people being taught and trained to respect, love and revere their homes? If not, how can we expect them to respect, love and revere the nation; or how can they expect to reach and to enjoy the home over all?

A genuine home feeling is the thing we most need to cultivate in this country. And it ought to be cultivated most assiduously, seeing that so much depends upon home feeling. Mere home knowledge or fealty to home will not answer the purpose. It must be a home feeling, for it is our inmost feelings that give trend to our thoughts and actions.

However, love, honest, pure love, is behind every genuine success, either in business or in social life.

Genuine love will not make you silly, nor lead you to act the fool or to make grand mistakes.

Home Education in Japan.

Every year there is smaller reason for a student, wanting a thorough education in any line, to leave Japan. In this war the Japanese have measured themselves with their occidental teachers and found how little they have to learn. Home education will probably come to be as popular in a few years as foreign education is now.—New York Sun.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 2.—Again the rumor is heard that plans are being made by a large syndicate to purchase City Island with a view to turning it into a fashionable summer resort. City Island is the destination of the majority of automobile parties. In former times it was a popular resort for those fortunate enough to own horses and carriages. Almost every evening during the week, and particularly on Sundays and holidays, the island is crowded and automobiles are to be found in great numbers.

City Island is at present a very inconvenient place to reach on account of the bad transit facilities. There are very few trains running between there and the lower part of the Bronx, and the fare is so exorbitant that the ordinary Sunday pleasure seeker does not patronize this cool summer spot because of the expense. Automobiles find splendid roads leading all the way from Manhattan through the Bronx to the island. Every pleasant Sunday during the spring an almost endless chain of automobiles have been going back and forth along Pelham Parkway into Pelham park and over to City Island. The increase in visitors this year has been marked.

With the six-tracking of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad trains will be run more frequently and passengers will be carried at reduced rates, which will necessarily greatly enhance the values of property all along that line, and particularly of City Island. It is said a plan is being prepared to complete a trolley line along Pelham avenue into City Island. The Interborough road with its lines will reach City Island through One Hundred and Eighty-ninth street. The old horse car line has been purchased. In completing this summer resort plan, it is said excursion boats will be run during the summer months from Manhattan to City Island, making a stop at some point on the shore of Pelham Bay park.

Mosquito Fleet in Grave Peril.

Let the Staten Island mosquitoes typify the Russians and Dr. Alvah H. Doty, health officer of the port of New York, and his legions represent the Japanese and you will have some idea of the expected carnage of a mosquito war on the little island in the upper bay, which will be begun next Monday. Gen. Oyama Doty says the chief factor in the success of the crusade is the folk of the island themselves. Dr. Doty, assisted by his inspectors, intends to make a house-to-house canvass of the island, and will advise school teachers to instruct the children in the simple means of preventing mosquito incubation. Engineers employed by the board of health, have looked over the section of Staten Island along the Kills and over the low lands opposite the New Jersey shore. They will make a complete report within a month regarding the drainage and filling in of the land in those sections.

Would Throttle Telephone Monopoly.

The first meeting of the board of estimate since the passage of the new law transferring to it from the board of aldermen the franchise granting power was signalized by an application from a company that would rival the telephone monopoly. Campbell & La Far, counsel for the Atlantic Telephone Company, asked for a blanket franchise for the entire city for the right to lay, erect and construct wires or other conductors for a telephone and electric system. They say that they now have contracts for 75,000 telephones at a flat rate of five cents a call. They have a backing of $25,000,000 and are prepared to issue bonds for $15,000,000 more.

Killing Two Birds With One Stone.

Thousands of people passing over the new Williamsburg bridge have asked questions about a strange looking brick chimney which is rising near the Manhattan tower. It starts in the street below and is nearly as tall as the tower. Dr. John McG. Woodbury, commissioner of street cleaning, is responsible for the structure. He is building a garbage incinerator and municipal electric lighting plant under the bridge, and this lofty chimney is necessary to give the furnaces adequate draught. If the commissioner's scheme works he will save the city a large sum each year. He proposes to burn all the East Side garbage in this incinerator and thereby create enough heat and power to run a lighting plant, which will light the Williamsburg bridge.

Another of the Old Guard Gone.

Gradually but steadily the old corps of headquarters' sleuths that did duty under Inspector Byrnes is passing to the retiring line. Hardly a corporal's guard remains at Mulberry street to tell the old-time detective stories. Robert, much better known the world over as "Bob," McNaught is the last to step out. He goes of his own accord at the age of 57, after serving 30 years in "plain clothes." He asked to be retired on half pay and leaves the department without a scar on his record. During the long service he rose only to the rank of a sergeant, but he leaves with his pension of $1,000 a year, with a good word for the bureau and a deep respect for the men under whom he served and also for the comrades he leaves behind. Although a civil war veteran he is still vigorous and capable of many more years of hard duty. He thinks, however, the time has come for older men to stand aside and let the young ones see if they can do as well.

Sheehan's Democracy Lost or Strayed.

Local politicians of both parties are wondering today what has become of John C. Sheehan's New York Democracy. It has disappeared from sight—lost somewhere in the great city in which it has played a part in so many fusion campaigns. Mr. Sheehan recently announced that the Republicans had offered to accept any candidate for mayor his New York Democracy might name. Some politicians suspect the organization has gone into hiding to avoid this Republican generosity. Announcement was made that the Democracy had sought asylum with John B. Doris in new headquarters, but all inquiries as to their location were met with vague and general answers.

HEALTH IN PANAMA

Effort to Make Canal Zone Sanitary.

Col. W. C. Gorgas, in charge of the sanitation of the Panama strip, in an article describing his work, says in the Broadway Magazine:

"Our work will touch every town within the canal zone, a province containing ten square miles, and extending 5 miles on each side of the canal. The sanitary measures are now being rapidly pushed with the energy and resources of Uncle Sam to the earliest practicable conclusion.

"A feature of our work which will enable us to make canal service against sickness is the most universal law which everyone is bound to obey, namely, to report all of the sick in the territory and to come to us for treatment. We found our great stumbling block at Havana was due to a violation of this law, and consequently we levied fines and inflicted punishment upon all who either willfully or ignorantly refused treatment. We had to be severe, for they had no respect for our clemency and the great epidemic of yellow fever which came upon us as a result of our clemency was an object lesson that we will not soon forget. The natives are naturally superstitious and suspicious of all foreigners and believe that home treatment was best.

"Most of the expense of sanitation will turn upon the hospitals, for when the canal work begins in earnest, if our efforts are propitious we expect a population of 5,000 to care for.

Fevers Distributed by Mosquitoes.

"We have now over 200 victims of malarial fevers in these departments and these cases in the main are treated on the same plan as the yellow fever patients, for both fevers are distributed by mosquitoes. Only by isolation of the patient and the extermination of the insects can these diseases be obliterated. Mosquito brigades have been organized to wipe out the blight and householders whose yards contain bottles, tins or anything that will hold water and furnish a breeding place for these pests are fined or imprisoned, or both, if they have been found to offend more than once. Inspectors are sent out each day to examine the conditions of house and yards, and drainage ditches have converted much swampy ground within the city limits into grassy plots. Garbage wagons make a house-to-house canvass each day and the refuse (which has heretofore been cast into the streets or else allowed to breed fever mosquitoes in the back yards) is carted away and all who fail to contribute to the garbage can supplied by the United States are fined. It is only by enforcement of such strict measures that we hope to meet with success. In Panama there is an insufficient water supply of interior water piped in from a river in the country and as good water is of vital necessity to our scheme of sanitation, we have made some of our biggest efforts to supply that demand. We are now building a dam across the Rio Grande river to make a reservoir for the water supply for the strip. This lake will contain an area of 900 square yards and is fed from the headwaters of the Chagres, near the Divide. Pipes are being laid along the railroad to Panama and Colon and the villages and stations along the route will at the same time be provided with fresh, cool water. But the principal thing we are determined to do is to lay siege to the mosquitoes. Our brigades fumigate houses, drain swamps and have begun the battle to the death against this plague.

"Our great efforts, under the direction of Dr. John Ross, United States army, will be to treat individual cases daily and drive the malarial parasite from the blood. By this means we hope to have the population so free from malarial infection before the great influx of labor begins, that if any mosquitoes remain they will have no infected persons to bite and in themselves be harmless.

Favors Canteen Restrictions.

"To obtain these conditions of health it is necessary to maintain a strict and rigid discipline about the camps where the laborer will live, as well as in the towns where he is bound to spend his idle hours and that brings me to the subject of the canteen. Personally, I would rather see the zone improved without this stuff being sold. I think it is injurious and do not believe, as most of the foreigners do, that it is a necessary drink for a tropic country, but since the laborers demand it, I think it advisable that the United States government furnish the liquor, which is bound to be purer in quality than it would be bought elsewhere. Then, too, I would recommend a strict police system about these canteens such as obtained at army posts, and when a man has had his drinks (the number should be limited) see that he is started home, and any canteen bartender that sells drinks to an intoxicated man should be fined for first offense and his punishment increased to banishment from the zone if found advisable."

No Lodging for Bacteria.

"I don't know about calling in Dr. Ryebold. Do you consider him a safe physician?"

"Perfectly. He shaves his face clean and he hasn't a spear of hair on his head."—Chicago Tribune.

BUSTER BROWN

THEATER WRECKED BY FIRE

Chief McKinley instantly sent in "three twos," which called out two additional districts in addition to those which now raced up the street. The first alarm brought six engine companies, one chemical company, the water tower and two hook and ladder companies. The "three twos" brought seven more engine companies and two turret trucks.

A more spectacular fire seldom is witnessed. Almost before the startling echoes of the "three twos" had died away the flames leaped across Fifth avenue and fantastic purple clouds hung above the shafts of fire.

Rainbows Arch the Flames.

The sun was shining brightly, and when the white streams of water were brought to play from a score of glittering nozzles, rainbows of glorious hue and brilliancy arched above the doomed theater. Chief Miles S. Humphreys and his corps of assistants ordered the firemen to make every effort to confine the fire to the Avenue theater and the entrance of the Grand.

A heavy fire wall separates the two structures, and it was no difficult task to save the Grand. The strong wind, however, swept the flames toward Fifth avenue and the Hotel Antler and buildings adjacent were imperiled. The fire now had been burning less than 10 minutes.

Superintendent Alexander Wallace of the bureau of police and Superintendent Thomas A. McQuaide of the bureau of detectives took personal charge of the police arrangements. The crowds were roped back to the Smithfield street and the Wood street ends of the square. A spark from one of the engines set fire to the awnings on the First National bank building, and simultaneously the heat caused the windows of the Hotel Antler to crack and the heavy sheets of shattered glass fell to the pavement, striking like shrapnel missiles in the midst of a group of firemen.

Chief McKinley is Hurt.

Chief McKinley was struck and a deep gash was cut above his forehead, the sharp edge of the broken window pane having cloven through his helmet.

Business was practically suspended in the downtown section. Each window in lower Fifth avenue, the roofs of skyscrapers and every vantage point were thronged with spectators. The police arrangements scarcely could have been improved upon and the fire fighters enjoyed a free hand for their work.

Manager Harry Davis, with a dent in his hat and his clothes saturated with water, assisted the firemen in locating the fire walls and in saving the main part of the Grand opera house. Along the Diamond street side of the building the stage people were crowded about the entrance, gathering the baggage which scene shifters had dragged from the dressing rooms.

It Was a Continuous Performance.

"Get your stuff out at once; the performance will be given at the Alvin as usual tonight," Manager Davis shouted to the actors who were looking after their belongings.

At 5 o'clock the scenery, stage properties and wardrobe trunks were carted off to the Alvin and all preparations were made for the resumption of the performance there. Frank C. Young, a member of the vaudeville team of Young and Devole, carried two trunks down to the stage door and then collapsed. Two years ago Mr. Young was a member of the ill-fated "Mr. Bluebeard" company, and was severely injured in the Iroquois theater fire in Chicago, where he lost his wardrobe and jewelry. He retired to his room in the Hotel Colonial and last night was utterly prostrated. Walter C. Kelly, an Irish dialect comedian, who was about to go on the stage when the fire occurred, has been through three theater fires this season.

Firemen exhibited the most reckless daring in forming their hose lines in front of the building. J. O. Challis, driver of No. 18 company, was seen inside the building when the roof threatened to collapse and engulf him in the burning wreck.

Went to the Rescue.

Ignoring the imminent danger of falling walls, Capt. Bartley Cauley ran up the red-hot fire escape, produced a ladder and got Challis out. The man had entered the building in the rear and was cut off by the flames. While gathering up the stage effects to be transferred to the Alvin, George Houseman, a stage assistant, was overcome by smoke and narrowly escaped death. Engineer Gregory also was overcome.

Former Fire Chief John Steele of Oakland was a conspicuous figure in Fifth avenue. In spite of his age and the fact that he is on the retired list, the ex-chief grabbed hold of the long lines of hose and helped the fire laddies to drag them along Fifth avenue up to the fire.

The employes of the Hotel Newell kept playing the house hoses on the front and roof of the building during the fire, and as a result not even a window was cracked. In this work Anton Lutz, the brewer, acted as amateur chief.

Used the New Loops.

The new downtown loops of the Pittsburgh Railways Company came into good use and the cars were operated without delay. Traction inspectors with megaphones ran through the streets and announced where cars to the East End and South Side districts could be reached at the loops in Grant and Smithfield streets, respectively.

At 7 o'clock the flames were subdued, but the firemen continued to pour on streams of water until after 10 o'clock.

The water supply was exceptionally good, there being 200 pounds pressure at each fire engine. All the feeders to the 36-inch main on Butler street were turned on to their fullest capacity.

Thirty-five policemen guarded the walls of the ruined theater last night. Traffic in lower Fifth avenue was closed and will remain so until Superintendent Dies decides whether the walls are in safe condition to remain standing. Should the walls prove unsafe they will be blasted down. The last of the fire apparatus left the scene of the fire at 1:20 last night, when the alarm was struck out.

VIEWING THE FIRE FROM FARMERS BANK BUILDING

VAUDEVILLE AT ALVIN WHILE OLD THEATER BURNS

Four hours after the fire broke out in the Fifth avenue building, the curtain was rung up at the Alvin theater and the performance proceeded as if there had been no interruption. Before the firemen had got a good survey of the conflagration at the Avenue, the moth balls were being swept from the carpets and draperies of the Sixth street playhouse and perambulators were parading the downtown streets announcing that the Alvin's first vaudeville performance would be given at 8 o'clock. Stage Manager Louis H. Baker quickly installed his properties and scenery and when the doors of the theater were opened at 7:30 o'clock everything was in shipshape for the show.

There was a good-sized audience, and from the front of the house the actors went through with their work as if nothing had happened. Behind the scenes the stage people wore long faces. It has been an eventful week for them. On Wednesday night Rose Aguinaldo, the young contortionist and the favorite of the players, died suddenly, and the Tasmanii troupe left the city with her remains. The excitement of the fire following on the heels of this tragedy upset the nerves of the pluckiest. All appeared last night except Young and De Vole. Mr. Young, a survivor of the Iroquois theater fire, being prostrated after yesday afternoon's experience.

TOTAL LOSS IS $110,000, WITH $95,000 INSURANCE

Manager Harry Davis Has Already Arranged for the Reconstruction of the Burned Theater.

The total loss by the fire on the Avenue and Grand theaters and contents is $110,000, this estimate being made by Harry Davis, the lessee. Exclusive of about $10,000 loss suffered by Davis in his personal interests, the billiard tables, bowling alley and slot machines under the Grand and Avenue theaters, the balance, about $100,000, is divided between Davis and the Pittsburgh Opera House Company, from which he leases, according to whatever arrangement they have agreed upon. The opera house company insures the buildings and machinery, and Davis the furnishings and equipment. Last night he said he carries more insurance than the Pittsburgh Opera House Company.

The loss on the Grand opera house and contents is $10,000, chiefly by smoke and water; the balance is on the Avenue theater and contents, and of that balance Davis loses about $15,000 on his confectionery in the Avenue and his billiard and other amusement enterprises. All but a few thousand dollars of the loss is practically covered by insurance. There is $70,000 insurance on the Avenue theater and contents, from the ground floor up, and Davis' interests in the basement under the Avenue and under the Grand are covered with $25,000 insurance.

The Negley & Clark Company, insurance agents, attend to most of the insurance for Davis and the Pittsburgh Opera House Company. H. T. Morris having placed some of it. The insurance is distributed among a large number of companies, many of them foreign.

Mr. Davis was asked last night about his plans for the future of the Avenue theater. He said:

We have arranged for Kerr & Fox, the contractors, to be here in the morning. We will inspect what remains of the Avenue theater, and as soon as plans can be prepared we will go ahead with the work of restoring the house. At present, I can see no reason why we should not be able to open up for the regular season. The slight damage to the Grand can soon be repaired, for the fire did not hurt it at all, but in the meantime the performances will go on at the Alvin theater.

Much is being said as to the terms on which the reconstruction of the theater will be allowed. Superintendent Dies of the bureau of building inspection called attention yesterday to the law which requires open spaces or alleys at three sides of theater buildings. It was intimated that merchants doing business near the theater would insist on compliance with the laws and city ordinances, because of the high insurance rates on the contents of buildings located near theaters. Although, after the Iroquois fire in Chicago, the city administration became apparently active in inspecting local playhouses and then declared all to be perfectly safe, Assistant Fire Chiefs McKinley and Bennett have visited the Grand and Avenue and some other theaters every week to study the work mapped out for them in case of fire.

THEATER IS NEARLY HALF A CENTURY OLD

Oldest Building of Its Kind Standing in Pittsburgh—Originally an Odd Fellows Hall.

The Avenue theater building was erected in 1857 for an Odd Fellows' hall. Before it was fully completed the association which had undertaken the project became involved financially and in the early part of 1861 William Coleman bought the property at sheriff's sale. It has been in the Coleman family ever since.

Coleman completed the building and fitted it up for a theater. The Avenue, therefore, was the oldest regular theater building in the city. The first manager was a Mr. Gardner, who conducted entertainments in the building for several years. There were at least two other leases prior to 1872, when Frederick Ames ran the house as a burlesque and variety place.

Patrick Harris was one of the most noted lessees of the Avenue, or the Lyceum as it was then known. He and George Starr got possession of the house in the early 80s. It became known as Harris' theater.

Mr. Davis has been manager of the Avenue for seven years. When he took hold of the theater a competition was held to select a suitable name for the playhouse. This resulted in choosing the title "Avenue."

In 1870 William Coleman bought the site of the Grand opera house in Diamond street, and in 1871 the Grand was built. It was owned by the Pittsburgh Opera House Company, which Mr. Coleman organized, with a capital of $200,000. This playhouse has been in use every season since its erection, and has been managed by Harry Davis for several years.

The Avenue and the Grand properties have been owned by Mr. Coleman or his heirs since they were devoted to theater uses. The present heirs, who are now listed as part owners in the stock company, are Mrs. Thomas M. Carnegie, Mrs. F. C. Nimick and Mrs. T. M. Fuller, sisters of Mrs. Carnegie, and Miss Jean C. Bradley, a niece of Mrs. Carnegie. All these ladies live in New York. Thomas N. Miller of this city, who has handled the Coleman properties for years and who married one of the Coleman heirs, is president of the Pittsburgh Opera House Company. W. W. Bell is secretary and treasurer and Fred C. Perkins and George B. Motheral are directors. All these men are large stockholders in the incorporated company.

Two years ago Mr. Davis secured a new lease on the entire property running through from Fifth avenue to Diamond street. This lease was for 10 years, and he has the privilege of renewing it for another five years under certain conditions. When Mr. Davis made the last lease the Grand opera house was moved back 20 feet to admit of the widening of Diamond alley. Both buildings were remodeled at a large expense and fire walls were built between them.

The Avenue theater was a four story brick structure on 85.4x120 feet. The building had a low value owing to its age and the last city assessment on both the Avenue and the Grand buildings was only $50,000. The site, however, is one of the most valuable in the city and is worth at prevailing rates at least $14,000 a front foot or $1,190,000. The Grand is a brick building of similar height on a lot having a frontage of 130 feet in Diamond street. This property is worth at least $1,000,000, which would be at the rate of nearly $8,000 a front foot. The two properties at a conservative estimate are worth at least $2,000,000 and many place their value at $2,500,000. The last city assessment was $1,300,000.

ORDERS INVESTIGATION INTO ORIGIN OF FIRE

Director Moore and Fire Marshal McGill Will Try to Solve the Mystery. No Theory Accepted.

Director Harry Moore has ordered an investigation into the origin of the fire, which is shrouded in mystery. It will begin today and will be thorough. He is informed that it is possible for two fires to occur in this building within two weeks. A week ago last Saturday a fire occurred in the opera house at about 10 p. m., when the house was packed. The fire was not serious, but it caused a semi-panic in the audience. No one was injured, however. Earlier this season there was still another fire in this building.

County Fire Marshal W. D. McGill stated last night that he was ignorant of the cause of the fire, but would begin an investigation today. He was displeased when he was told that Director Moore intended to make an investigation on behalf of the city.

"What has he got to do with it?" Mr. McGill demanded. "He ought to keep out."

"I believe the fire started in the loft of the Avenue," said Harry Davis, the manager of the two theaters. "I was in Allegheny and did not get back until after the alarm was turned in. I can offer no explanation as to the cause of the fire."

"I have not the slightest idea how the fire started," said Thomas N. Miller, president of the Pittsburgh Opera House Company, which owns the building. Mr. Miller arrived on the scene about an hour after the fire broke out. The suggestion was made to him that the fire might have been caused by defective electric wiring.

"I hardly believe that," said he, "because the electric lighting was new and of the most modern type. It was put in only two years ago and the whole building was improved, with a view of it being occupied until the expiration of the present lease, which has 18 years yet to run."

John Lofc, a negro stage hand, who discovered the fire, says it started in the flies above the stage. He says no one was in the Avenue theater when the fire started.

CITY'S POLICE ARE ACTIVE.

Streets Are Cleared and Keen Lookout Is Kept for Bad Characters.

As soon as the nature of the fire was realized Mayor Hays, Director Moore, Building Inspection Superintendent Dies, Detective and Police Superintendents McQuaida and Wallace and Police Physicians McCandless and Booth were on the scene.

It was not long until Fifth avenue and Diamond street, between Smithfield and Wood streets, were cleared of the crowds and roped off. Superintendent Dies was afraid the Avenue walls might fall and crush a number of spectators.

The police officials expected pickpockets would get busy, and sent a large force of plain clothes men through the crowd. Charles Fultus, aged 20, of Webster avenue, was arrested on suspicion, and A. L. Hutson, aged 40, of Indiana, and Ollie Neslamp and Ernest Good, of No. 3 Rolls alley, were locked up for disorderly conduct.

It was also feared attempts would be made to rob the jewelry stores on Fifth avenue. A strong force of police was placed on guard and the jewelers were asked to close.

ACTRESS LOSES COSTUMES.

Drops Them Into the Gutter and They Are Trampled by Horses.

During the rush to get costumes and stage effects out of the Grand opera house, one of the actresses gathered up her belongings and started for the Diamond street entrance. Just as she reached the street one of the hose burst. The water sprayed all over her and the shock caused her to drop her wearing apparel and other incidentals into the gutter. The muddy water nearly saturated them.

When about half way across the street a newsboy volunteered to get the belongings. The actress told him to allow them to remain on the street, saying it would cost more to have them laundered than they were worth. After a few minutes' reflection she was sorry she had left them behind and told another boy to get them. But it was too late. They had been torn beyond repair by horses trampling upon them.

OPERA HOUSE AUDIENCE CONDUCTED TO SAFETY

Shrewd Work Prevents a Panic Among 1,200 Men, Women and Children.

Twelve hundred persons, many of them women and children, were in the Grand opera house when the fire broke out in the Avenue. Every one was conducted to safety, without a symptom of a panic or the slightest mishap. This was due to the shrewdness of the policemen and a half a dozen volunteers.

County Detective Robert G. Robinson, Constable C. F. Mills and M. J. Hughes were standing across the street when they saw smoke issuing from an upper window of the Avenue. They knew what that portended. They crossed to the opera house, and in whispers announced to the ticket seller and the ticket taker that the Avenue was on fire and the opera house audience must be got out as quickly and quietly as possible.

Former Police Inspector Robert S. Gray and Charles McAfee were doing police duty inside in plain clothes and Ordinance Officer Murray G. Livingstone was also in the house. They were told of the impending danger.

A vaudeville act was just closing and as the curtain dropped the men, who had scattered themselves through the house, quietly notified the audience that the show was over. Gray had gone to the orchestra leader and informed him of the situation, and he signaled his musicians to strike up an air that is usually recognized as a signal of dismissal.

In five minutes after the rescuers entered the theater, the audience in the parquet and dress circle was out in Fifth avenue. There were some scenes of excitement when the women who had been averse to leaving emerged on the street and saw the engines and the crowd. Three women tried to faint, but they were gently but firmly urged to the open air, where they recovered.

Policemen H. Ford, Patrick Adams and John Kennedy had followed Robinson and his companions into the Grand. Their presence and their evident intention to clear the theater, did much to convince the audience that the uniformed men who told them the show was over were authorized to make the announcement.

Some of the patrons in the gallery were reluctant to leave and it was necessary to send men up to make them go. Those nearest the entrance to the gallery were directed out by the regular door, but those nearer the Diamond street side were sent out through another doorway, down a hall and to the fire escapes on the Diamond street side. By this time spectators had gathered in Diamond street, and they cheered the theater patrons on the fire escape. These looked astounded, amazed and not altogether convinced, how or why they had been taken away from the show.

SUIT HAS BEEN ENTERED AGAINST PITTSBURGHER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HELENA, MONT., June 2.—Suit has been brought by the Helena Gold and Iron Company against Ralph Baggaley of Pittsburgh, involving the ownership of certain claims in Grizzly Gulch, near Helena.

The complaint alleges the plaintiff is the owner of the Helena and Wisconsin lodes, and that the defendant has wrongfully entered upon portions of the claims, "through a pretended location as the Success lode." It is alleged the defendant has applied for a patent for the claim, and the plaintiff has filed an adverse claim in the land office, and the suit is brought to quiet title. The property involved is in the section where the Pittsburg and Montana company is taking out iron ore for use in its smelters in Butte. The contention of the plaintiff is that the location of the Success takes in about five acres, of one of the claims it has located and about one acre of the other. The lands are considered quite valuable.

RULE IS GRANTED ON MRS. M'KINLEY

Widow of Late President's Brother Must Explain Management of Estate.

GOTHAM BANK HAS CLAIMS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SOMERSET, June 2.—In the orphans court of Somerset county today, a petition of the Seaboard National bank of New York, praying for the removal of Mrs. Annie McKinley as executrix of the estate of her husband, the late Abner McKinley, was filed. The court granted the following rule:

"To Mrs. Annie McKinley, executrix of the last will and testament of Abner McKinley, deceased, greeting: You are hereby cited to be and appear before his honor, Francis J. Kooser presiding judge of the orphans court of said county, on Monday, the 19th of June, 1905, then and there to show cause if any you have, first, why you should not be removed from your said trust; second, why you should not be required to file your account in said estate; third, why you should not be required and ordered to account to the estate of said Abner McKinley, deceased, for all the funds received by you or by any person or persons for you from any and all life insurance policies issued upon the life of said Abner McKinley, and with policies or the insurance represented thereby which was at any time payable to the estate of said Abner McKinley, and which was thereafter altered so as to appear to be payable to you, the said Mrs. Annie McKinley."

Ex-Judge Samuel S. Mehard of Pittsburgh, Gen. William H. Koontz and Attorney John G. Ogle of Somerset, are counsel for the petitioners. Mrs. McKinley is represented by Attorney George R. Scull of this place. The life insurance carried by the late Abner McKinley is said to have approximated $100,000. The Seaboard bank's claims against the estate are $1,500 and $6,000. Mrs. McKinley is in Florida, where she spent the winter. The McKinley estate is understood to be insolvent and not likely to pay 50 cents on the dollar. On May 1 the orphans court sale of Abner McKinley's real estate was sold. Mrs. Mabel McKinley Baer purchased for $16,000 the McKinley residence here.

FANCY OF POETS FLIES ALOFT IN WINGED VERSE

That there are many men and women, girls and boys, who, bestriding Pegasus, like to take flights into poetry, especially when the prize of a Columbia graphophone awaits the successful rider on reaching the poetic heights, is demonstrated. Three hundred and twenty-five versifiers responded to the Columbia Phonograph Company's invitation to compete for four prizes, each prize a graphophone, the first prize being an instrument worth $50.

The mail was received by Manager W. E. Henry of the Pittsburgh territory. Manager Henry was swamped with letters for several days, but he missed a treat, for to insure absolute fairness, five newspaper men, selected by the respective newspapers to which they were attached, were chosen, and yesterday selected the winners, who are:

First prize, H. A. Baldwin, general secretary of the East End Young Men's Christian association; second prize, P. L. Livengood, Elk Lick, Somerset county; third prize, Edward Mayhugh, Monongahela; fourth prize, Mrs. Hancock, No. 630 Thirty-third street.

The verses were limited to a length varying anywhere between 10 and 100 words. Mrs. Hancock's production was exactly 10 words, and Mr. Baldwin's contained exactly 100 words.

Of course, there is much curiosity among competitors and public to read the successful verses, and Manager Henry intends to publish the prize winning verses in the newspapers. According to the terms of the contest the company has the right to use all the verses submitted. Many of the productions are very good, but the art consisted in using the words "Columbia" and "graphophone" at least once, and in descanting on the merits of the graphophone, doing it in an entertaining way, in correct prosody. Many of the poets had good ideas, but their measure limped; others knew how to manage the feet in their verses, but their ideas were barren. It required the judges hours to read all the verses, and by a process of comparison and later elimination to arrive at the selection of the most meritorious verses.

Evidently all the writers admired Columbia graphophones, for as Manager Henry holds, the great thoughts with which they were inspired must have been evoked by the actual sound of the beautiful instrument itself or by hearing its praises sung by those who have the pleasure of owning one.

MYSTERIOUS POWER

— OF —

Panopathic Professor Heals Hopless Invalids.

DEAD ARE RESCUED FROM THE GRAVE

And Restored to Life and Health by This Man, Who Says There Is No Disease He May Not Cure.

MAKES HUMAN HEART BEAT AGAIN

In Body of Woman Threatened With Burial.

Abandons Private Practice and Useless Drugs and Gives Service and Home Treatment to the Sick and Afflicted.

NEW YORK, June 1.—(Special Correspondence.)—Wallace Hadley, the famous Professor of Panopathy and Physiactrics, has again demonstrated his mysterious power over disease. He shows that the drugs prescribed by doctors and the surgeon's knife are often worse than useless, and by healing hundreds of hopeless invalids pronounced incurable by physicians he proves his claims that there is no disease he may not cure. In defiance of the supposed laws and rules of modern medical practice and the theories of physicians and specialists, he has made the human heart beat again in the body of a woman prepared for the grave and performed other seeming miracles of restoration to life and health of men and women given up to death. Indeed, he surmounts in the face of each apparent impossibility that he appears to possess a healing power unequaled in other ancient or modern times—a power above and beyond that give to ordinary mortals. In consequence of the successful operations of the world's greatest specialists become insignificantly child's play. Apparently the supposedly incurable diseases such as paralysis, consumption, heart disease, cancer, deafness, etc., are cured by him just as easily as the more common disorders of humanity. Going still further, he has proved that he can cure patients in their own homes, thousands of miles away, just as quickly and surely as though they came to him in person. To extend the blessing of this wonderful power to mankind, there remained but one thing for him to do, and that he has done by abandoning his private practice and offering his services free of charge to all who stand in need. He is quoted as saying that he feels it his religious duty to help the sick and afflicted, independent of any reward.

One of the cases that makes possible the belief that Professor Hadley's power approaches supernatural control over disease even to the point of death, is that of a Mr. E. C. Bass, of El Campo, Texas, who was rescued from the grave after the doctors had given him up to die, could do nothing to revive him and left him for dead. Brought to this condition by the combined attack of kidney and liver disease, dropsy and acute articular rheumatism, he suffered the torments of the damned and was almost insane with pain before the end came. The doctors and their medicines failed utterly. Although he was as good as dead when Professor Hadley's attention was called to his case, he was speedily restored to life and health by this panopath's marvelous power, though even Mr. Bass himself confesses that he does not know exactly how this miracle was performed. Another case, almost equally remarkable, was that of a Mrs. J. C. Wakefield of Norfolk, Va., who asserts that he restored the vital spark in her body when she was prepared for the grave, that at the end of a long siege of illness from a complication of diseases her body fell cold and lifeless. But she says that Professor Hadley made her heart beat again, the blood flow through her veins once more and warmth return to her wasted body. Naturally she looks upon her rescue and restoration to health as pending understanding. Professor Hadley saved the life of Charles W. Miller of Ostenfeld Furnace, Va., when threatened with a deadly cancer, without the use of a knife or burning. He restored to perfect health Mrs. M. Worthington of Center Square, Pa., a woman who had been an invalid for twenty-five years from complicated female troubles, many long months bedridden in hospitals, and who had been pronounced incurable and given up to die by all her physicians. Yet these are only random instances selected from among the hundreds where Professor Hadley's almost incredible power has made the bonds of disease fall away as if they were broken chains, and restored health and happiness to suffering men and women.

Naturally the announcement that a man of such wonderful ability to heal will hereafter give services and home treatment free to all who ask is most sensational and far-reaching in its effects, since it gives every one throughout the country, the poor as well as the rich, an equal opportunity to be cured by availing themselves of this panopathic offer made by one of the greatest scientists of the age. And it is the more remarkable and fortunate in view of the fact that there is no disease he may not cure.

When questioned in regard to his abandonment of private practice in order to devote himself to the new line of work for humanity, Prof. Hadley said:

"Yes, it is true, but I intend to go on curing anyone who is ill of any disease, they may have, just as long as I am able. Indeed, where I cured hundreds before, I expect to cure thousands hereafter, as now neither wealth nor property makes any difference to my prospering patients. I have become convinced as a Christian it is my duty to help the sick and afflicted wherever they may be, whoever they are and whatever their circumstances."

"But how about those at a distance?"

"Distance makes no difference. I can cure those thousands of miles away just as easily as those who come to my office. A letter does just as much good as if I went to them or they came to me."

"Do you really mean that any one who is sick can write to you to be cured without paying you any money?"

"Exactly. I mean just that. All that any one who is ill from any cause has to do in order to enlist my services is to write to me, addressing Wallace Hadley, M. D., office 1002V—No. 1265 Broadway, New York, telling me the disease they suffer from most and their principal symptoms, and I will send them a course of home treatment absolutely free of charge. While I am not a millionaire and I appreciate the expense this may mean, I look upon the restoration to health of my fellowmen not as a question of money, but as a duty I owe to humanity. I will have my reward in proving my power to the world, and in showing the uselessness of wasting money on doctors and medicines when it is not necessary."

WILL PUT WREATH ON JACKSON TOMB

RECEPTION IS HOSPITABLE

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM WILLIAM L. ROSS, Staff Correspondent.

FREDERICKSBURG, VA., June 2.—With the arrival here this evening of the party which will tomorrow take part in the unveiling of the monument to Gen. Alexander Hays, it developed that a graceful tribute will be paid on the same date to a well-beloved southern commander. Southern veterans are to participate in the Hays monument exercises, but not a member of Maury camp, Confederate Veterans, knows that on the way to the spot in the Wilderness where Gen. Hays fell, a great wreath of ivy is to be placed on the monument to Gen. Stonewall Jackson. Capt. David Shields of Pittsburgh is taking a leading part in this plan, and will make a short address to the assembly as the wreath is placed. Mrs. J. Sharp McDonald and the Grand Army of the Republic quartet will sing.

Later in the afternoon Capt. Shields himself will be surprised. His brother, Lieut. William C. Shields, Company G, Twenty-eighth Pennsylvania volunteers, was killed at Chancellorsville and his remains lie in the National cemetery here with 14,000 other unidentified northern soldiers. A wreath will be placed on the monument to the unknown dead, in memory of Lieut. Shields. When the Pittsburgh party reached the railroad station, they were received by Maj. Thomas P. Wallace, mayor of Fredericksburg, and himself a confederate officer. He delivered a short address of welcome, and announced that the homes of the people of Fredericksburg were open to receive with hospitality those who had been met by enemies 40 years ago. This proved literally true, as the hotel capacity of the town was overtaxed, and many of the party rest tonight beneath the hospitable roofs of the old Virginia city.

Active in the entertainment of the visitors are the following prominent citizens: Capt. S. J. Quinn, Judge John T. Gotlick, Maj. W. S. Embrey and Judge Alvin T. Embrey. The party, under the auspices of Capt. Shields and Gilbert A. Hays and Arthur W. Teddy of the Baltimore & Ohio, has nothing but the most pleasant experiences to report.

No party more representative of the patriotism of Pittsburgh ever started on a mission of the kind, and with the trip ended, the 180 members of the party have gone to their rest to prepare for tomorrow's busy program.

In the train leaving Pittsburgh there were a few more than 100 persons, and the party was swelled by others who had come from Philadelphia and those who joined the ranks in Washington.

The members of the party include: Alden F. Hays, H. Byers Hays, George F. Hays, Mrs. George A. Gormly, Samuel Gormly, Agnes A. Black, James M. Hays, John S. Sullivan, Gilbert A. Hays, Alexander Hays, David S. Hays, Sidney F. Murphy, Mrs. Sidney F. Murphy, George W. Murphy, David Shields, Thomas Shields, A. C. Walker and two sons, the Rev. Nathan L. Brown, J. Sharp McDonald and Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. John A. Roe, William C. Nevin, Robert J. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Edward G. Cunningham, Samuel W. Black, W. Dwight Bell, Dr. J. Collard White, W. H. Jeffries, Fred A. Winter, A. G. Williams, George M. Marshall, James Alexander, Robert McLain, H. C. Gearing, William H. McKown, Robert C. Black, John F. Thomas, George B. Chalmers, George Hamilton, Edward Saint, Robert Paul and Mrs. Paul, Thomas Kirk, C. C. Fawcett, Crosby Gray, Jr., James H. Gray, David Glass, Newton Wilson, James Will, James Truby, R. E. WEAVER'S AX IS AT WORK AGAIN

He Decapitates the Assistant Directors of Public Works and Public Safety.

APPOINTS THEIR SUCCESSORS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Press Building.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., June 2.

Mayor Weaver swung his ax again today and took off the heads of two more city officials. The men deposed are Alexander Colville, who was assistant director of public safety, and William H. Baker, assistant director of public works. Colville's place was filled by the appointment of Thomas W. South, a former magistrate. Baker's place went to Thomas L. Hicks, who was postmaster of Philadelphia during President McKinley's first term.

While the opposition to the Durham organization discerns in the appointment of Hicks and South a heavy blow at Mr. Durham, others who understand the situation say the changes really amount to very little politically. It is generally believed Messrs. Potter and Acker, when they took the directorates of public safety and public works, decided they needed new men in whom they could place implicit reliance, and therefore determined upon the changes with the mayor's sanction.

Neither Baker nor Colville made any objection when asked to step out, but handed in their resignations immediately.

Hard upon the ousting of the two, came rumors of a general shakeup in which hundreds, even thousands were to be removed. The wish, in this respect, is believed to have fathered the prediction.

The worst sufferer in the agitation over the gas lease is the stock of the United Gas Improvement Company, to which the works were to have been given. On rumors that the mayor intended to reclaim the gas works at the end of 1907, which the city may do if it does not wish to let the present lease run until 1927, the holders of the stock suffered another squelch today. The quotation sagged down to 95. Only a short time ago it stood at 124.

Mayor Weaver has announced that from now until the end of his term, he is going to run his administration on a business basis. Strict economy is to be practiced in all departments under his jurisdiction, and all employes not necessary in the proper conduct of the city's affairs, will have to resign. The director of public safety issued an order today that hereafter all absentees from duty in the police and fire departments, whether through sickness or other cause, shall have proportionate amounts deducted from their pay.

In carrying out the wishes of the mayor that the police shall keep out of politics, the director of public safety also issued an order today that the report be made to him of the number of voters registered from the home of every member of the police department. At every election within the last few years complaints have been made that large numbers of illegal voters have registered at the homes of policemen.

It was reported today that the mayor intended to appoint an advisory board of 12 citizens who are experts in various lines of work, to assist him in proposed improvements.

The committee of nine today decided to assist Mayor Weaver in his fight against the Republican organization of the city.

Two Cases for Coroner.

While searching for his father in the Pitcairn yards of the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday morning, William Ellstrodt, Jr., aged 17, of Wallis, was caught between two moving cars and wedged to death. An unknown Italian woman, aged about 48, was killed by a train at Bessemer station on the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday.

COMPLAINTS ARE MADE AGAINST NICEWANER

Councilmen and Citizen Workers Trying to Oust Man Holding $4,000 Job.

Efforts are being made by councilmen and Citizens party workers and others, who claim to have grievances, to secure the removal of E. G. Nicewaner, who draws $4,000 a year from the city for acting as superintendent of highways and sewers. Complaints have been made to both Mayor Hays and Director Bigelow, and it is claimed by those who are trying to oust Nicewaner that he is slated to give up his present position on or before the first of July.

Supt. Nicewaner was asked yesterday about the rumors that he was to be dismissed and he replied: "I knew nothing about them. I do not believe there is anything in them." Director Bigelow said yesterday that he was considering complaints regarding Supt. Nicewaner, but was not ready to announce his decision.

"There are complaints about Mr. Nicewaner's temper; that he has a habit of cutting people off short," said Mayor Hays. The mayor made it plain that there would be no heart-burnings on his part if Nicewaner should resign. Over a year ago the mayor was credited with asking Director Bigelow to discharge Nicewaner because the latter had moved out of his ward the day before election and lost his vote. Director Bigelow at that time was Supt. Nicewaner's friend and refused to dismiss him. Nicewaner expects the director to stand by him again.

A couple of weeks ago a councilman, who claims he was not treated with the proper courtesy by Supt. Nicewaner, talked with other councilmen about circulating a petition asking Director Bigelow to remove Nicewaner. He says a number of councilmen agreed to sign the paper. When his anger abated, however, he gave up the idea of a petition, but is understood to have filed a strong complaint. James M. McKee, of the Nineteenth ward, is mentioned a possible successor to Nicewaner.

The removal of William Sprague, the aged superintendent of the bureau of water assessments, is also rumored. Mr. Sprague has completed the last water assessments to be compiled under the present administration, and it is stated his place for the remainder of the year may be given to a more active political worker.

Forms Hungarian Cabinet.

VIENNA, June 2.—The Neue Freie Presse today announced that Gen. Baron Fejervary has practically succeeded in forming a cabinet for Hungary.

SOCIETY

ALTHOUGH the rain made a garden party an absolute impossibility yesterday afternoon, and Mrs. Henry Clay Frick had to entertain her guests indoors, the affair was none the less enjoyable. From 4 until 8 o'clock Mrs. Frick and her son, Childs Frick, who came home from Princeton on Wednesday, received together. Mrs. Frick's sister, Miss Martha Childs, assisted. Each room on the first floor of "Clayton," the family residence in Homewood avenue, was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and as the affair was given as a farewell before the various families of the two cities leave for their summer homes, the apartments were thronged with smartly gowned guests during every hour. The decorations in the dining-room were unusually effective. At intervals over the large table were small silver dishes and bowls heaped high with fruit, while in the center was an epergne filled with delicately-shaded pink roses. Tall silver candelabra with bead fringe were also placed on the table. Mounds of fruit and white roses occupied the table in the breakfast room, and clusters of white roses brightened the music room. Across the hall, in the drawing room, were great clusters of long-stemmed pink roses filling tall vases and smaller jars.

Pre-Nuptial Affairs End.

The last of the social affairs given for Miss Adeline J. Spencer took place yesterday. Miss Spencer's wedding to Charles H. Curry is to be an event of this afternoon in the Shadyside Presbyterian church. Curry, mother of the bridegroom, entertained the entire bridal party at dinner at her residence in Homewood avenue.

AMONG THE CLUBS

D. A. R. Re-Elects Officers.

Though the Pittsburgh Daughters of the American Revolution have accepted the $12,000 damage award on the old blockhouse property, they have by no means retired from the field of battle. It was announced at their annual meeting yesterday that another suit was still pending, in which the Daughters seek to prevent the destruction of the north front of their blockhouse property by the encroachments of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The chapter yesterday listened to annual reports and elected officers. The officers are: Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, regent; Miss Julia Morgan Harding, vice regent; Miss Pauletta Guiney, recording secretary; Mrs. W. D. Hamilton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William E. Earle, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, registrar; Miss Beulah Kennard, historian; board of managers, Mrs. Robert T. Heineman, Mrs. Dexter J. Thayer, Mrs. Edward Blaine Scull, Mrs. William N. Baltzell and Mrs. George Heard. The directors of the D. A. R. of Allegheny county include Miss Matilda Denny, Miss Mary E. McCandless, Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, Mrs. S. Jarvis Adams, Mrs. James B. Oliver, Mrs. Cyrus Clarke, Jr., Mrs. Albert Horne, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., and Miss Kate C. MacKnight.

Plans for the improvement of the blockhouse property include the tearing down of the dwelling now standing on a portion of the grounds and the erection of a two-story brick house for the custodian. A path will lead from Penn avenue to the blockhouse in the rear. In the near future the Daughters expect to erect a memorial gate at the Penn avenue entrance.

The Pittsburgh chapter now has a membership of 476 members. The treasurer's report showed receipts of $1,709 92; expenditures, $1,631 62, leaving a balance in the treasury of $72 30, exclusive of the $12,000 award.

College Alumnae Meet.

The annual meeting of the Alumnae association of the Pennsylvania College for Women was held yesterday afternoon in Dilworth hall. The new class of 1905 was received into membership, the address of welcome being delivered by Mrs. W. P. Barker, the retiring president. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Walter Mellor; vice president, Miss Jane B. Clark; secretary, Miss Rosetta Moore; treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth McKay; editors of the Alumnae Recorder, Mrs. Arthur B. Davis, Miss Harriet Kerr, Miss Hilda Sadler and Miss Elizabeth McCreary. Sale at Home for Crippled Children.

Under the auspices of the managers of the Memorial Home for Crippled Children an exhibition and sale of the work of the children will be conducted this afternoon in the home in Margaretta street, East End. The feature of the sale will be the display of work which the children have done during the past year, the object of the exhibition and sale being to acquaint people with the character of the work accomplished in industrial lines with the children and secure future orders for them. The proceeds of the afternoon will be devoted to the purchase of materials for the children, all of whom are under 13 years of age.

Endow Cot for Queen Victoria.

Englishmen in Pittsburgh have raised a fund to endow a cot in the Pittsburgh Hospital for Children in memory of Queen Victoria. The formal exercises will take place on Coronation day, June 26, the anniversary of the crowning of Victoria in Westminster Abbey in 1838. For several years the English in Pittsburgh have taken a deep interest in the work of the hospital, supporting a bed in the institution. Some time ago they gave $2,281 02 for the purchase and endowment of a cot over which they will place a tablet with the name "Victoria."

Bath House Managers Meet.

The permanent board of managers of the Soho Bath House met yesterday. J. Boyd Duff, first vice president, presided. During the coming week a finance committee will be appointed which will take immediate steps looking toward the securing of money to cover the cost of the new bath house. At a meeting of the women's bath committee the settlement committee, of which Mrs. George Porter is chairman, announced progress in its plans for the settlement house at 2404 Fifth avenue, where a flourishing kitchen garden has been established.

Winding Up the Season.

The Teachers' Art club held a reception last evening at the Kindergarten college. There was a very informal program, consisting of music by Miss Jessica Childs and Miss Loomis, with readings by Miss Mary J. Henry. The club will not meet again until September. Its work next season will consist of a study of pictures, photographs and the paintings in the Carnegie art galleries, architecture, magazine illustration and talks by art experts. The club will make a specialty of work in design.

Forum Club Closes Season.

The Forum club held its last meeting of the season last evening in Kingsley House. It has had a successful year, its first formal debate a few weeks ago being one of the most important feature of the year's work. Next year it has planned to broaden its work and will take steps to increase its membership. Its first meeting will be held in September, when the election of officers will take place. During the summer a camp will be established, the exact location not yet being decided upon, a committee having been appointed to select a site. The club has taken up gymnasium work with enthusiasm, in addition to its literary evenings, and is planning new features for next season.

Opening Day at Valencia.

Lilian Home at Valencia will be opened today. A party of several hundred will go down from Kingsley House this morning and spend the day at the summer home presented to the Kingsley House association by Charles L. Taylor. This will be its third season. The party will return this evening and the first party of children sent from the city for a two weeks' vacation there will be taken down on Monday. The house will remain open until frost comes.

DOOR IS OPENED BY REPUBLICANS

Liberal Construction of the County Rules to Govern Primaries in the Future.

REVISION BY THE COMMITTEE

A liberal construction of the county rules is to govern the Republican primaries in the future. This was decided yesterday afternoon at the first meeting of the joint committee to revise the rules of the Republican party in the county and in the cities of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and McKeesport held at Republican headquarters. W. A. Magee was elected chairman of the committee, and William M. Benham secretary.

Chairman Thomas J. Ford of the county committee, who called the joint committee to order, spoke in favor of broad and liberal rules and the throwing open of the Republican primaries to all members of the party, welcoming back to the fold those who for any reason had left the party at any city or county election.

Speeches along the same line were made by nearly all members of the joint committee, which consists of the following members: County, W. A. Magee, W. T. Tredway, George W. Snaman, John P. Hunter, Charles W. Gardner, William Metcalf, Jr., Samuel Milliken; Pittsburgh, John B. Barbour, Jr., F. C. Beinhauer, William M. Benham; Allegheny, Thomas P. Trimble, William C. Gill; McKeesport, W. E. Thompson, J. F. Woodward. T. H. Verner, together with the chairmen and secretaries of the county and city committees, who are ex-officio members of the committee on rules.

The following resolution offered by W. T. Tredway was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this conference that the qualification entitling one to participate in a Republican primary should be that contained in the county rules, to-wit:

"Any person who has voted the Republican ticket at the last preceding national or state election, and who has resided in the district wherein he offers to vote for a period of 30 days preceding such primary election shall be a qualified Republican elector and entitled to vote at such primary election."

Mr. Tredway believed it the best policy to let it be known at once that the sentiment of the committee is in favor of welcoming back and making at home all Republicans who have left the party. The following resolution offered by Mr. Tredway was also unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this conference that conventions shall be the final judge as to the membership therein, in accordance with the rules of the present county committee, which provides for such contests to be settled by the convention.

On motion of John P. Hunter it was decided that the preparation of new rules for the county, cities, boroughs and townships should be placed in the hands of a sub-committee consisting of W. A. Magee, W. T. Tredway, J. B. Barbour, Jr., John H. Henderson and Col. W. E. Thompson. The sub-committee will meet at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon to begin its work, which is to be reported to the joint committee. The joint committee adjourned until Friday, June 16.

COMPLETING DETAILS FOR COMING SAENGERFEST

Arion Society from Brooklyn Will Arrive Tomorrow Morning—William Heeren Gives Reception.

The elaborate preparations that have been making for the big Saengerfest to be held in Exposition Music hall next week, are about complete, the committees in charge having put forth their best efforts to leave nothing undone at the last moment. The decorations at Music hall will be noteworthy. One of the principal features in this line will be the front wall, which will be covered by the banners of the 33 singing societies taking part.

The Arion society of Brooklyn, with Arthur Claassen, the festival conductor, will leave New York on a special train this evening. There will be over 100 in the party and they are all coming anticipating that the Saengerfest is going to be a great affair and with the belief that Pittsburgh will repeat the notable success of the great National festival of 1896. The Brooklynites will arrive tomorrow morning and in the afternoon will be given a carriage drive through the two cities. Tomorrow evening the Arion crowd will be entertained by William Heeren, at his handsome residence in Center avenue.

Madame Lillian Blauvelt will also arrive from New York tomorrow morning and Madame Poehlmann, of the Metropolitan Opera company, will put in an appearance on Monday morning. Both of these artistes will be quartered at the Hotel Lincoln. The other singing societies coming to the Saengerfest are scheduled to arrive early Monday morning. They will all be met by escort committees with brass bands and escorted to the reception hall.

HERMES PAYS BOTH FINES.

Select Councilman Looks After Interests of Patron—Pure Food Cases Are Heard.

Councilman Peter Hermes, who was charged by Special Agent James Foust of Altoona, with selling cream adulterated with formaldehyde, paid the fine and costs, amounting to $50, on Thursday. He also paid the same fine and costs for T. M. Negley of 218 Anderson street, Allegheny, who was charged with the same offense. Mr. Negley is a customer of Councilman Hermes.

Max Goldman and Jacob Wisoky of 1370 Clark street were held in $300 bail each for trial at court, on a charge preferred by Special Agent H. L. Banzhoff of the dairy and pure food commission. The men were accused of selling adulterated butter, which is said to have been mixed with water, coal tar dyes and other deleterious substances. The butter was sold to Special Agent Banzhoff, who testified that he took it to Prof. T. F. Ashworth for analysis. The latter said that he found the butter to contain 31.54 per cent of water, coal tar dyes and other substances. This was the case in which Pure Food Commissioner B. H. Warren has gone to Washington, D. C., to protest against Collector D. B. Heiner for his alleged failure to assist in the prosecution of the pure food laws of the state.

Pittsburgh the Home of Typhoid.

Samuel H. Adams, in this month's McClure's magazine, says that Pittsburgh is the home of the dreaded typhoid fever. He severely arraigns the city for having such an impure water supply. He says that the city regularly delivers over more victims of typhoid than any other city in the United States, and all because of the pollution of the city's water supply. Pittsburgh, however, is taking active steps to give the people a pure supply of potable water. In this week's issue of the Index, Pittsburgh's great illustrated weekly, Mr. Paul Mason, an authority on the subject, says that the filtration plant which is already being built, will be the largest and the best in the United States. The article is finely illustrated and should be read by all who are interested in the welfare of Pittsburgh. For sale at all news dealers Saturday.

NATIONAL GAMES TODAY.

Chicago at Exposition park,
New York at Boston,
St. Louis at Cincinnati,
Philadelphia at Brooklyn.

The weather man played a trick upon the baseball teams yesterday afternoon, and the Chicago-Pittsburgh game scheduled for Exposition park was called off when it might have been completed. When the time for opening the gates arrived a drizzle began and the management decided to wait until 2:30 for the rain to cease. But the condition went from bad to worse and a hard shower at 2:00 seemed to end all hope for a game. Fifteen minutes after the announcement of the postponement the sun came out and before 5 o'clock last evening the field was in fine condition again.

There are two dates on which the postponed game can be played—July 10 and September 6. The Chicago club is scheduled to play an exhibition game at Corning, N. Y., on July 10, but may cancel it and come to Pittsburgh.

The two teams leave here after today's game and go to Chicago where they are scheduled to play the first double-header of the season tomorrow. The extra game was originally slated for April 28, and was postponed on account of rain.

In all the Pittsburgh team will play eight games next week, weather permitting. It will begin with the double-header at Chicago Sunday. On Monday it will close its engagement in the Windy City with a single game and on Tuesday will meet the reorganized Philadelphia team at Exposition park. This will be the first appearance here this year of an eastern team. The Phillies will play only one game and then go west. They will be followed by the New York club, which will play here next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Mike Lynch has been sick since Tuesday, but Fred Carisch, his roommate, reported last evening that the pitcher is improving and expects to be able to go to Exposition park this afternoon. He will not be well enough to make the trip to Chicago. Wagner is eligible to play against Chicago this afternoon. Ruelbach, the Chicago pitcher who has made a hit with Manager Selee, may make his first appearance in Pittsburgh in today's game. Clarke will doubtless upon Leever or Robertaille.

New York 8—Boston 3.

BOSTON, June 2.—Boston lost today in 18 innings 8 to 3. Fraser, who had been pitching excellent ball, weakened in the final inning and was batted for four hits with a total of nine bases, which, with a double and a hit by pitched ball, gave the visitors five runs and the game. The score:

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Kunkler for Pittsburgh College, and King for Indiana Normal will be the opposing pitchers on the Bluff today. The game will start at 2:15.

Yale and Princeton meet today at New Haven in the first of a series of three games. S. R. Apperson, graduate coach of the Georgetown team, in The Yale News says in part: "Yale seems to be the superior in the field and batting, but in Byram, Princeton has a pitcher whose ability surpasses that of any Yale man. Princeton has two good pitchers, Byram and Doyle. In base-running Yale again seems to be the faster and uses better judgment. Yale's chances in the championship series depends on her ability to hit Byram. In all other departments I should consider Yale to be the superior to Princeton."

Shadyside academy and Kiski meet today at Saltsburg in the second game for the interscholastic championship. "Toots" Shultz will pitch for Shadyside and it is likely McCreight will work for Kiski.

The trial events for the western intercollegiate championship in field and track captured yesterday on Marshall Field, Chicago.

Pittsburgh High school has 23 men entered in the interscholastic field and track championship meet today at Washington. Washington and Jefferson also has 23 men, Carnegie High school 8, Beaver Falls High school 8, Beaver High school 6, and New Brighton High school 3.

He got two two-baggers, the last one driving in three runs and giving Sharon the game. Getting Ready to Aid Orphans.

Bishop Canevin has sent word to the pastors of all the Roman Catholic churches in the Pittsburgh diocese, requesting them to send representatives from their respective parishes to meet with the board of directors of St. Paul's orphan asylum at the Lyceum, tomorrow evening, to take preliminary steps for the annual orphans' picnic, to be held about the middle of July. The asylum now shelters about 900 children, which necessitates the immediate building of a new wing.

Question of Municipal Ownership.

The fact that the city of Philadelphia owns the gas plant which has been the cause of a great fight in the Quaker city, has given many opponents of municipal ownership an argument against the prevailing tendency in the cities of the country. The Philadelphia gas plant has afforded for many years a vast amount of graft for the hungry politicians. Those interested in the subject should not fail to read in this week's issue of the Index a complete and accurate account of Philadelphia's gas fight, written by a person who has studied the subject closely. The Index, the greatest illustrated paper in the country outside of New York city, is on sale at all news stands Saturday.

M'GRAW SEEKS LAW'S AID TO PREVENT SUSPENSION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, June 2.—A bill in equity against President Harry C. Pulliam and the various umpires of the National League of Baseball teams was filed in the superior court here today by John J. McGraw, playing manager of the New York team of the National league, in which the latter seeks to have the defendants enjoined from imposing a fine on him for alleged misconduct and preventing him from acting as manager of his team on the field. Justice Sheldon issued an order of notice returnable on Monday, and a hearing will be held. In addition to President Pulliam, the petition is directed against Umpires Henry O'Day, Robert Emslie and others. The petition for the injunction is a result of the act of President Pulliam in imposing a fine of $150 on McGraw, as well as suspension from acting as manager of the New York team on the field. The matter was brought to the attention of the board of directors at their meeting here last night, when the directors exonerated McGraw of charges brought against him by President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club. President Brush of the New York club endeavored to have the punishment of McGraw removed, but President Pulliam ruled that the board had no right to review his action in the matter.

The bill filed by Manager McGraw today urges that the whole action of President Pulliam in fining and suspending him be made null and void on the ground that the petitioner will lose his salary as player, $150 in cash, representing the fine levied, and that, in addition, he will suffer irreparable loss to his reputation as a professional baseball player. The court decided to hear the parties to the proceedings next Monday.

NELSON'S POOR SHOWING.

"Kid" Sullivan Had All the Best of Six Round Battle.

BALTIMORE, June 2.—The six-round fight tonight between Battling Nelson of Chicago and Kid Sullivan of Washington, was the hottest contest seen in this city for many a day. To the spectators, apparently without an exception, Sullivan seemed to have much the best of it, landing on Nelson's head and neck repeatedly and usually getting in a stiff punch in breaking from the frequent clinches.

In the fourth round he knocked Nelson through the ropes. Nelson's blows were nearly all landed at close quarters, and he showed an inclination to hold more than the spectators thought proper. Referee William Rocap of Philadelphia called it a draw.

MATINEE RACING STARTS TODAY

FINE PROGRAM ARRANGED

The curtain will be lifted on the light harness sport of the season around Pittsburgh this afternoon with the first race matinee of the Matinee club of Pittsburgh and Allegheny of the year on Brunots Island track. Never before has there been so much keen anticipation for this splendid sport, as all lovers of the game are anxious to see the great array of turf stars gathered during the winter measure.

Six events are programmed for this afternoon, which will bring together such great performers as Terrace Queen, Frank Wilson, Redwood, Robin C., Sweet Marie, McEurie, Maj. Wilton and other flyers in their respective classes. The great thing about it all is that everything is free and for nothing this grand sport can be enjoyed, which is worth going miles to see.

If the day is a good one enormous crowds are expected to go down. Several four-in-hands will leave the Duquesne club after luncheon bound for the track. They will have as passengers many ladies and, indeed, the matinee today is to be quite a ladies' day. The electric ferry carrying passengers from the Allegheny side to the island was installed several days ago and carries traps as well as passengers.

An innovation this year is that the Matinee club will run no boats. Instead the traction transportation facilities will be solely relied upon. An entir

STOCKS OPENED WEAK, BUT CLOSED STRONG

Changes in Sentiment Were Rapid, but Without Special Significance—U. S. Steel Common the Only Active Stock Here.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was weak and lower in the morning and strong and higher in the afternoon. The close was near the highest, but with a few exceptions the net changes were not important. Discussion of Equitable Life affairs was again the principal factor in the opening dealings. The official report of the Frick investigating committee was not made public during market hours, but the statements published purporting to give a synopsis of the report were not questioned by any of the directors of the society, and they made a bad impression.

The traders took advantage of prevailing sentiment, and, aided by the lower quotations, they made the market look as weak as possible at the opening. The selling continued for about an hour, and everything sold off sharply. United States Steel declined to 25¼ and the preferred to 91, and in the railroad list special weakness appeared in Union Pacific, which is not only a pivotal stock, but its future course has been made to appear dependent in some degree upon the outcome of the Equitable investigation.

The subsequent course of the market indicated that much of the early selling had been for short account. The recovery was led by Union Pacific, but later Reading became the strong feature, and finally the United States Steel stocks rallied. Changes in sentiment were rapid but without special significance. About the middle of the afternoon the directors of the Equitable adjourned until 2:30 p. m., and a report gained currency that the Frick report would be suppressed. One of the directors was quoted as stating that the adoption of the report and its recommendations would probably be defeated by a small majority. At first the market took the logical view of this rumor and sold off rather sharply, but it later recovered and reached the highest prices of the day. The buying of Reading was on a large scale by a prominent Philadelphia-New York house, and was accompanied by a report that the dividend on Jersey Central, which is controlled by Reading, would be increased, which it was thought would foreshadow the placing of Reading on a 4-per cent basis.

A number of railroad reports for the month of April were published which made a favorable showing. Conspicuous among these were the Harriman roads. Union Pacific reported an increase in gross earnings of $622,655, and an increase in net of $213,191. Southern Pacific reported an increase of $794,899 in gross and $516,000 in net. Washington dispatches revived hopes of early peace negotiations between Russia and Japan, but foreign markets did not reflect this hope. The government's report on cotton, which was looked forward to with great interest, estimated the reduction in acreage at 11 per cent, which was somewhat under the estimates of independent experts, and placed the condition at 77.2 against 83 last year. Snow's report on wheat and corn conditions estimated the production of winter wheat at 465,000,000 bushels, and a condition of 88.8, against 91.1 a month ago. The acreage of spring wheat was estimated at 20,500,000 acres, against 19,700,000 acres last year. Corn planting is late and the growth of the grain in the ground is still retarded by cold weather. Grain markets closed a fraction higher, but cotton closed at the lowest prices of the day.

Call loans were a little firmer, the rate advancing to 3 per cent, but closed at 2½ to 2¾ per cent. The principal movements in currency this week foreshadow a decrease of $2,500,000 cash in today's bank statement. The only active stock in the local market yesterday was United States Steel common, which sold to the extent of 2,340 shares at prices ranging from 25⅛ to 25¾, closing at 25¾. The preferred declined to 91½, but rallied to and closed at 92⅝ bid. Crucible Steel was dull and 1@1½ per cent lower. Pittsburgh Coal common sold at 19½, but closed at 19⅛ bid. The preferred closed unchanged at 76½ bid, 77 asked. Westinghouse Electric closed a fraction lower at 83½, after selling at 83. There were no sales of Air Brake, but the stock closed in fair demand at 142½ bid. Pittsburgh Oil and Gas reacted sharply to 64 and recovered to 68 on sales of only 130 shares. The remainder of the market was dull and without particular feature.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Except that they reflected the sentiments of a handful of professional traders, there was no real significance to the fluctuations in the New York stock market yesterday. The early weakness was no doubt due to efforts to make the market look as weak as possible and ascribe the weakness to public fear of the consequences of the Equitable Life investigating committee revelations. The public has already done its thinking on this scandal, and interest now lies in the recommendations of the committee. It is to be presumed that these recommendations will be for the benefit of the policy holders, and if certain officials are censured and if a new management places out of the reach of promoters and underwriters the use of the society's funds, the effect will be good. When the public declined to follow the professional traders and sell stocks at a sacrifice, the same traders who had sold short started to cover their contracts. They found a comparative scarcity of stocks offering for sale, and prices advanced as easily as they had declined. There was no important change in trade conditions and no developments in the foreign political situation to influence values.

Reports from the Equitable meeting indicated a vigorous effort to prevent the adoption of the report of the investigating committee with seeming prospects of success. Operators who had sold stocks on the apprehension that the publication of this report would depress prices were naturally inclined to rebuy on the later prospects. Union Pacific was especially responsive to the changes in sentiment on the Equitable incident, as it has been throughout. The special strength of Reading was connected with revived rumors of a coming increase in the dividend on Central railroad of New Jersey. Traders centered their operations on this stock in a movement against the shorts in the market.

Railroad earnings for April show some very large increases in operating expenses, with effect on net earnings, resulting in the case of the Pennsylvania lines both east and west of Pittsburgh and Erie in a decline in net earnings.

The narrowness of the market for Pittsburgh Oil and Gas was demonstrated yesterday when on transactions of less than 150 shares the price broke 4 points to 64 and recovered 4 points to 68. It was reported that the first test well drilled by the company on the new property acquired with the purchase of the McBride well will be due on Monday, and if it comes in a large well it will have an effect upon the market price of the stock.

Inside interests continue to absorb Luster Mining on the advance, and the stock closed higher at 19½. Tonopah Extension has been allowed to take care of itself since the declaration of the initial dividend last month, and yesterday the price further declined, touching $4 70 a share. There was a subsidence of the activity in Ohio Tonopah, only 100 shares changing hands, against nearly 15,000 shares on Thursday.

Westinghouse Electric sold off to 83, but recovered to 83½ at the close. Offerings of the stock are smaller since it became apparent that inside interests were ready to absorb an unlimited amount around 80.

United Gas Improvement was very weak in the Philadelphia market yesterday, selling down to 94¼ and closing at 96 bid, 96¾ asked. This is the lowest price of the year and about 30 points below the high price reached in April when the ordinance for the extension of the lease of the property was introduced into councils.

The report of the Real Estate Trust Company showed the largest totals in its history. Deposits, which were $3,353,942 on November 21 last, were increased to $4,387,902 by May 29, the gain being $1,024,000. Undivided profits increased from $393,705 to $574,452, in addition to which dividends of $100,000 were paid between statements. Since January 1, 1902, the company has paid $480,000 to its stockholders.

Net earnings of Ontario & Western for April increased $43,072.

Chicago & Alton April gross earnings increased $7,216, and net increased $53,099.

J. P. Morgan & Co. call the attention of holders of their certificates of deposit for the first mortgage 4 per cent gold bonds of the Pittsburgh & Western Railway Company to the fact that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company has acquired and deposited, as additional security under the mortgage securing that company's Pittsburgh, Lake Erie & West Virginia system refunding mortgage 4 per cent bonds more than 75 per cent of the Pittsburgh & Western first mortgage bonds, and also that the remaining holders of these bonds, which mature in 1917, may have the opportunity of receiving in exchange for them the company's new Pittsburgh, Lake Erie & West Virginia system refunding mortgage 4 per cent gold bonds of 1941. The company has arranged with the bankers to exchange those bonds on even terms, with accrued interest, on the respective issues, adjusted in cash at the date of the exchange. This exchange must be made through J. P. Morgan & Co. within 30 days from June 1. Bondholders who do not desire to make this exchange will receive par and accrued interest in cash for their certificates upon presentation to the bankers.

The new stamp tax law on stock sales went into effect in New York yesterday.

One Wall street commission house bought 50,000 shares various stocks on the decline during the morning, and another bought 50,000 shares Reading during the day.

Hocking Valley directors have declared dividends of 2 per cent on preferred and 1¼ per cent on common, payable July 17.

In its monthly circular on financial conditions the National City Bank thus discusses government finances: "With continued monthly deficiencies marking the course of government revenues, it is becoming more and more apparent that the next session of congress will find it necessary to provide some means of replenishing the treasury. Contrary to best expectations the month of May instead of showing a comfortable surplus, as is customary, has joined the long procession of recent months and closed with expenditures some $3,000,000 larger than receipts. This unlooked-for result places the deficit for the 11 months of the fiscal year 1905 at roundly $37,000,000, or more than twice the official estimate of a deficit for the whole year. Treasury experts figure that this will be materially reduced in June and that the year will close with the government about $20,000,000 or $27,000,000 short of meeting the year's expenses from current receipts."

The forecasts of the currency movement indicate that the receipts from the interior have largely offset the requirement of the sub-treasury in which is included the $3,000,000 transferred to San Francisco through that institution during the week. It is believed that a further outgo of a still larger amount to the same destination is still to come. The day's clearing house exchanges at New York were the largest in the history of the clearing house. Pennsylvania railroads issued $3,000,000 bonds which were involved in the showing. This and other syndicate transactions are likely to figure in today's bank statement.

The failure to make payment on the interest warrant of June 1 on the income bonds of the United Railways & Electric Company of Baltimore makes it the immediate duty of the trustees to declare the full 2 per cent on each warrant calls for $280,000, making the aggregate for the three $840,000. The income bonds are cumulative and settlement must be made for the accumulations before any dividend can be paid on the stock of the company. The report of the company stated that the surplus earnings of the company were needed to offset extraordinary expenses incident to the fire and to cover the more liberal expenditures since then for replacements that have been charged to maintenance. Under the income mortgage payment is to be made on the interest warrants out of the surplus remaining after expenses, taxes, fixed charges and maintenance have been deducted. The management has been doing considerable work in replacing worn-out tracks with heavy new steel of the latest type.

ONE MORE SALE IN FIFTH AVENUE

K. Klebansky Gets $40,000 for His Property at 1514.

GOOD DEALS IN EAST END

H. M. Berman of the Merchants Savings and Trust Company sold for K. Klebansky 1514 Fifth avenue for $40,000 cash. The name of the buyer is withheld until the deeds are delivered. The lot is 25x115 feet with a three-story brick building now occupied as a retail furniture store. As the property is about midway between Pride and Marion streets the price, $1,600 a front foot, is not considered excessive, especially as the property rents for $2,400 a year. Such a figure one year or 18 months ago would have been laughed at, but with the bump removal coming to the front again now investors as well as old are getting into the market and looking for well located lots on the avenue. Two other good-sized deals are now pending for Fifth avenue holdings.

Through the agency of J. E. Lawler of the East End Savings and Trust Company, Leopold Vilsack has sold to Augustus Breitenfelder the Breitenfelder hotel building on the north side of Frankstown avenue, near Park avenue, Twenty-first ward. The hotel is one of the best known hostelries in the East End, and has been occupied by the purchaser of the property for several years. The building is a substantial three-story brick structure standing on 20x110 feet. The price now paid for the property, $20,000, figures at the rate of $1,000 a front foot, showing that Frankstown avenue frontage is in firmer demand than before the widening.

Prospects in East End.

Two big East End deals are so far along as to warrant the belief that they will be closed in a few days at most. One property involved is that of P. J. Walsh, at 6212 Penn avenue, near Shady avenue, which measures 20x120 feet. This property is booked to change owners soon at a valuation of $100,000, which will eclipse all prices heretofore paid for Penn avenue frontage in East Liberty. Two years ago Mr. Walsh bought the lot for $40,000, and erected a four-story fireproof brick hotel on the site. The building contains 72 rooms, a grill room, large dining-room and bar room, and is finished throughout in hardwood. It has a renting value of at least $8,000 a year. Two buyers are in the market for the property and it is said that one of them has agreed to the terms of the seller proposed yesterday. The deal, if it goes through, will establish a new set of values for Penn avenue frontage, and the great enhancement may be attributed chiefly to the big jumps lately in the price of rents. Five years ago the building at 6204 Penn avenue brought only $1,800 a year rental. Now the same building rents for $4,000 a year and other similar advances have been noted.

The head of a big downtown department store is figuring on buying a 30-foot site in Frankstown avenue, near Penn avenue, for the purpose of establishing a big branch store in the East End. It is said that the total investment for site and building will be about $100,000. The option on the property was secured some time ago, and the deal is likely to be consummated next week.

Exchange Deal of $18,000.

Through the Aronson Realty Company A. C. Wallace, the McKeesport broker, has traded for William King of Buena Vista, Pa., his holdings at 611 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, to Louis Radin, a McKeesport business man. The lot measures 25x100 feet and has on it a three-story brick business block. This property went into the deal at $18,000 or $180 a front foot in part payment Mr. Radin tendered his apartment house at 1505-1507 Locust street, Sixth ward, Pittsburgh, a three-story brick block on 36x65 feet, which was valued at $12,000. The buildings now rent for $1,000 a year. Mr. Radin has also bought another business property on Fifth avenue, McKeesport, through the same brokers.

O. S. Richardson proves to have been the buyer of the A. Goldman holdings in outer Fifth avenue, the deed for which was delivered yesterday by the Aronson-Friedman Company. The property consists of a large brick house facing in Fifth avenue and two buildings facing in Ann street in the rear, the lot being 70x150 feet. These houses rent for $1,200 a year.

Through the agency of J. W. Sherrer, Max Kilburger sold to Morris I. Leban a three-story brick apartment house on 40x139 feet on the north side of Bennett street, near Negley avenue, Thirty-seventh ward, for $18,000.

BLACKBERRIES ARRIVE IN THE LOCAL MARKET

Peaches Are Also Being Quoted and Sweet Corn Is Cheaper.

Blackberries are now quoted in the southern list. They are selling at 15 and 18 cents a quart. Good strawberries have advanced by the crate. Peaches are quoted at $2.50 to $3 for a six-basket carrier. They are from Florida and are nice looking fruit. The market stands are taking on a real warm weather appearance as a result of the southern stuff added this week. Sweet corn was marked down to 40 and 50 cents a dozen yesterday, a drop of 10 cents. There were no other changes of note in the produce and green goods line.

Cheese is still on the slide and dropped another half cent yesterday. It will probably go still lower, as there is an abundance of cream and all the cheese factories are busy. In the butter and egg line the situation is about the same as it has been for several weeks and no decided change is noted.

Groceries are firm in all lines. Flour is much firmer than it has been all week and the shading which has been going on during the week has been stopped. It will probably go still lower, as there is an abundance of wheat and all the cheese factories are busy. In the butter and egg line the situation is about the same as it has been for several weeks and no decided change is noted.

Groceries are firm in all lines. Flour is much firmer than it has been all week and the shading which has been going on during the week has been stopped. Full quotations are now demanded. Reports from the northwest are to the effect that the mills have a great deal of unsold flour on hand, buyers refusing to go into the market on the May price. It is not unlikely, the Northwestern Miller says, that similarly high prices may be worked up for July. In that event there would be no lower flour market.

UNSEASONABLE WEATHER IS SETTING BUSINESS BACK

Burdensome Stocks Must Be Carried Over Unless Warmer or Sacrificed Period Comes Soon.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 2.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say: Warmer weather is needed to restore normal conditions but in certain sections of the South the season opened favorably and crops are promising for a heavy spring business, but unseasonable and backward weather in other sections extended unfavorably, and large consumptive lines are reduced by clearance sales of heavier goods. A few weeks of hot weather would greatly improve the situation, however, particularly as the anticipation of midsummer trade, which would be reduced in other respects, is very generally active. A heavy movement of spring goods has been the most marked feature, its good demand and confidence is supported in securing a sound basis, whose close should be a serious controversy regarding wages. Other leading branches of manufacture are steadily favorable reports, the rise in prices of raw material setting as a check to all trade gains, but any excessive inflation would probably induce reaction. Reports are unfavorable to the full amount of any increase much better results than last year, particularly statistics of failures and bank exchanges, while throughout returns of railway earnings show an average gain of 7.7 per cent. Popular confidence at this date for the first week in June from the country exceeding those of last by $4,423,183, while reports showed a small gain of $301,454.

Minor metals are fairly steady, and the only development in the coal market is the usual monthly advance in price of anthracite. Coke goods are less active, reducing the reduced output of 72 per cent therefore, but contracts are being placed for delivery during the first half of next year.

Textile fabrics are stronger in tone because of the upward tendency of raw materials, and also on account of the limited supply of goods in few hands, often making prompt delivery impossible.

Trade in leather lines is still confined to small purchases for late April and May making for immediate requirements.

New England footwear manufacturers are receiving liberal fall contracts from salesmen at the west and points are now operating close to their full capacity.

Failures this week in the United States are 189, against 221 last week, 204 the preceding week and 220 in the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 23 against 19 last week, 21 the preceding week and 20 last year.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: Wheat, including flour exports for the week ending June 1 are 3,598,252 bushels, against 1,422,703 bushels a year ago. From July 1 to date, the exports are 178,850,902 bushels, against 179,893,902 bushels in 1904, 147,966,902 bushels in 1903, and 4,666,902 bushels in 1902. From July 1 to date, the exports are 78,850,902 bushels, against 78,850,902 bushels last year, 130,666,902 bushels in 1903, and 202,666,902 bushels in 1902. Corn exports for the week are 692,802 bushels, against 1,225,497 bushels a year ago. From July 1 to date, 37,106 bushels, against 1,015,871 bushels in 1904 and 64,254 bushels in 1903. From July 1 to date, the exports of corn are 24,679,066 bushels, against 20,258,366 bushels in 1904, 42,258,066 bushels in 1903 and 24,679,066 bushels in 1902.

MOTHER FAINTS IN COURT ROOM

CONSTABLE IS REMOVED

Mrs. Susan Lawrence, in an attempt to frighten her daughter into staying home at nights, met with a more serious situation than she intended when the child was brought before juvenile court for the adjudication of the case. Although the mother pleaded with the court to permit her to take her daughter home, the court, on recommendation of Miss Alice B. Montgomery, probation officer, sent the girl to the Home for Feeble-Minded Children at Polk.

Miss Montgomery told the court she believed that the girl, who is but 14 years old, was weak and needed the attention that could be given her at Polk. The mother cried and pleaded to have her sent home or at least to St. Joseph's protectory. When the court signed the order sending her to Polk, the girl cried and piteously begged to go home, while the mother fainted in the court room. After she was revived she continued to mourn and cry for her daughter outside the court room for some time.

Royal Grimm, the 14-year-old Groveton boy who had gained considerable notoriety by trying to wreck a train, and afterwards attempting to burn the Boys' Industrial Home at Oakdale, was sent to Morganza.

Constable Is Removed.

An order was made removing Henry Cawley as constable of the Fourteenth ward. Cawley was charged with forging the name of his uncle, Thomas Cawley, to his bond. The uncle, it is claimed, was dead, and a charge of forgery is now pending against Cawley. James McFarland, Benjamin F. Jones and William A. Small have made application to be appointed Cawley's successor.

Exceptions to the report of the board of viewers in recommending the division of the borough of Avalon into wards were filed in quarter sessions court by 14 residents of the borough. The jurisdiction of the court is questioned because the petition for the division fails to allege the statutory grounds of jurisdiction under the act. It is also claimed that the division is neither necessary, expedient or proper and will prove an inconvenience to the residents of the borough.

Attorney John S. Robb, Sr., presented a petition in quarter sessions court asking for the discharge of J. Henry Jahn from jail under the insolvent laws. Jahn's light sentence of six months to jail for a number of crimes last Monday, but five costs in the cases against him will compel him to remain a prisoner for some time. Judge Shafer remarked that he got off easily, but Jahn's attorney did not agree with him.

Court Makes Restitution.

Restitution of the fine and costs is awarded by quarter sessions court in the suit brought by Fish Warden J. W. Hague against Charles Nelstein, who was fined for having 10 wall-eyed pike in his possession. The fish were caught in Lake Erie, and while the act of 1901 provides that it is unlawful to catch, kill or have in possession these fish, yet the same act provides that the penalties shall not apply to any lake partly within the borders of this state or fish caught therein. The court says the evidence in the case shows no violation of the law.

The hearing in the matter of the estate of Anna C. Sargeant was concluded yesterday. The case was before Judge J. J. Miller in orphans' court, the question involved being relative to a note for $3,500, which was claimed to be a forgery. The claimant is C. D. Perrine of Indianapolis. E. W. Perrine, a barber of Youngstown, testified that in 1901 he lived in Edinboro, Erie county, and had gone with Perkins to Miss Sargeant's home and had seen her sign the note. Several witnesses testified that he did not live in Edinboro at the time. The case was concluded by hearing expert witnesses on hand-writing.

Says He Was Injured.

J. N. Griffith entered suit against Simon Whitestone for $5,000 damages for false arrest. He alleges that in November, 1902, Whitestone caused a warrant to be issued by Alderman John A. Martin on a charge of conspiracy, alleging that he, with others, started stories tending to injure the Pittsburgh Sick and Accident union by claiming that it was insolvent and that its officers were misappropriating the funds. He avers that he was indicted and tried at the December term of quarter sessions court and acquitted. Griffith claims he has been greatly injured in his business as an insurance solicitor, and as secretary of the National Beneficial union.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against Miller Bros., merchants at Windber, Pa. The petition is filed by the Fushan-Lapman Shoe Company, L. Gordon, Jr., Gonumshapira & Co., and Friedman & Rosenfield. Their claims aggregate $605.50.

Elisabeth H. McClintock and others filed an action against the Southwest Pennsylvania Pipe Lines asking $5,000 damages. They allege by reason of a break in the lines oil flowed over their property in Richland and Pine townships.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Otherwise he will go direct to his country place at Lake Sunapee, N. H. In any case the secretary will go to his country residence after seeing the president.

GEN. MILES DISCUSSES UNIFORMS AND BATHTUBS

Denies He Adopted Gorgeous Attire, and Says He Carried With Him Only a Small Rubber Basin.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, MASS., June 2.—Gen. Nelson A. Miles, military adviser of Gov. Douglas of Massachusetts, and formerly commander-in-chief of the United States army, said today:

"In reply to the statement that I adopted for myself a gorgeous and extravagant uniform as commanding officer, I had the right to prescribe the uniform which I should wear. I revived the simple uniform prescribed by Maj. Gen. McComb in 1839, discarding the elaborate sigulietties worn by Sheridan and the gaudy epaulettes worn by Schofield, Sherman and Grant. I adopted the coat-of-arms of the United States on the shoulder knots, as I believed the motto 'E Pluribus Unum' to be particularly suitable for an officer of the United States.

"In regard to the statement that I have always been supplied with a bathtub when travelling or on military duty, I never carried anything heavier than a bundle weighing two and one-half pounds, which could be strapped to a saddle. It consisted of a small rubber bathtub which could be used in any camp."

CASTRO STILL OBDURATE.

Venezuelan President Reiterates His Opposition to Arbitration With the United States.

CARACAS, VENEZUELA, June 2.—President Castro read his message to congress today. He said the relations of Venezuela with all countries were relatively cordial.

"With the United States," he declared, "through causes foreign to our will, and without the least responsibility on our part, we have had a slight difference, but the discussion of the questions seems to have made the facts clear to the American government, judging from the measures the said government lately passed in favor of our good and cordial friendship. Those questions refer to the Bermudez and Orinoco companies. The latter have already been adjudged under the protocols, but nevertheless Mr. Bowen desired a new arbitration. The government could not accede to this, as the sovereignty and independence of the republic were involved."

The new illustrated booklet of the Peoples Savings Bank, Fourth avenue and Wood street, is of special interest to all who work and save. Mailed free upon request.

$2.50 The Hanover Shoe For Men

The Greatest Shoe Value On Earth.

Announcement

THE POPULAR

Hanover $2.50 Shoe

COMES TO PITTSBURGH.

Will Open Saturday, June 3

The makers of the Hanover Shoe have established at 518 Smithfield Street, this city, their twenty-second store for the exclusive sale of their celebrated shoe for men and boys.

The Hanover Shoe has a national reputation and equals the $3.50 to $5.00 kinds in every way. It is the shoe that made the $2.50 price popular and has scores of imitators, but no equals under the prices named. Positively the only difference is the price. Thousands who formerly wore higher priced shoes see no use in paying more; neither will you.

The reason for the remarkable value at the low price is simply the Hanover factory-to-consumer one-profit system, together with our being satisfied with a small profit and limited advertising. You get the middlemen's profits by our selling direct to you—having only the maker's profit to pay.
